STUDENTS IN AN AUTO RUN DOWN A WOMAN

Miss Julia E. Loni, an aged resident of East Weymouth was killed today by an automobile on Broad street, East Weymouth. The car was driven by George C. Valentine, a student at Brown University and is owned by William V. Kellen of Cohasset. Miss Loni, who was more than seventy years old, stepped off the sidewalk on Broad street, directly in front of the auto. She received internal injuries and died half an hour later.

Medical Examiner J. C. Fraser witnessed the accident and telephoned to Judge Avery in the Quincy court that he did not believe the boys were responsible. He explained that the boys were running the car slowly and that they should not be held. As a result of this Judge Avery declined to issue a warrant which had been asked for by Chief Fitzgerald of East Weymouth.

Philip Kellen, who was in the auto, is a son of William Kellen, owner of the car. He, too, is a student at Brown University.

SUICIDE WRITES APOLOGY FOR USING ROOM IN WHICH HE TOOK HIS OWN LIFE

Charles Reiss, thirty-two years old, of No. 36 Williams street, Roxbury, committed suicide today at his home by inhaling illuminating gas. He left three notes, one of them indicating domestic troubles, as the cause of his act. The contents of the other two were to notify his relatives and an apology to the owner of the house for using one of her rooms for such a purpose.

Reiss, it was said had been separated from his wife for over three years. About a month ago he hired a room in the Williams street house. Today, Mary Gorman, a servant detected the odor of gas. This was traced to Reiss' room. Entrance was gained by breaking into the room through a window. Reiss was found lying on a bed. The doors and windows were stuffed with paper. The man had been dead at least twenty-four hours, according to the medical examiner. Reiss has a brother, John Reiss, employed by the Boston Belting Company, and another relative, Mrs. Barbara Peter, of No. 349 East Eighth street, South Boston.

3 MEN BURNED BY EXPLOSION OF NAPHTHA MIXTURE

Three men were badly burned, one said to be fatally, by an explosion of a naphtha mixture in the boiling house of the Fowler Patent Leather Company at North Woburn this afternoon.

The men injured are Enoch Curtis and Homer Danforth of Woburn, members of the new firm of Curtis & Danforth, and J. Irick Peters, one of their employes. Mr. Danforth is said to be fatally hurt.

Word of the explosion was telephoned the Woburn police. An ambulance and six doctors and a patrol wagon of police were sent out.

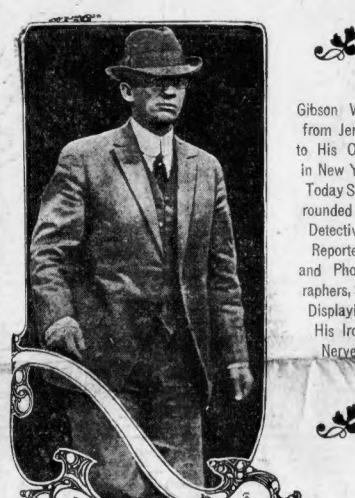
At the same time fire apparatus started in response to an alarm sent in from the leather factory box.

CALL FOR MEETING ON WATER FRONT PARK

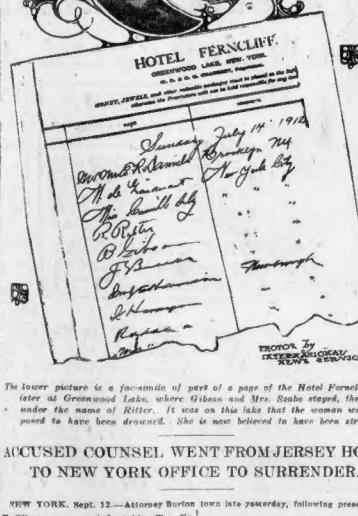
The residents of East Boston who attended the recent mass meeting in favor of the Water Front Park, and who signified their intention of joining the Civic Association, and all other men and women interested in said organization, are requested to meet in the East Boston High School hall on Friday evening, September 13, for the purpose of organization and transacting such other business as shall come before the meeting. Doors open at 7:30; meeting called at 8 o'clock.

Lawyer Gibson Is Arrested Held for Countess' Death Noblewoman Was Strangled

ATTORNEY BURTON W. GIBSON.



Gibson Went from Jersey to His Office in New York Today Surrounded by Detectives, Reporters and Photographers, Still Displaying His Iron Nerve.



The lower picture is a facsimile of part of a page of the Hotel Ferncliff register at Greenwood Lake, where Gibson and Mrs. Szabo stayed, the latter under the name of Ritter. It was on this lake that the woman was supposed to have been drowned. She is now believed to have been strangled.

ACCUSED COUNSEL WENT FROM JERSEY HOME TO NEW YORK OFFICE TO SURRENDER.

NEW YORK, Sept. 12.—Attorney Burton W. Gibson was arrested at his office, No. 35 Liberty street, today, on a warrant charging him with the murder of Countess Rosa Menschik Szabo.

The Countess lost her life while boating with her counsel on Greenwood Lake, in Orange County, in July.

The warrant charging murder was issued by County Judge H. C. Reyce at Middletown late yesterday, following presentation of evidence by District Attorney Thomas C. Rogers, which the court believed showed a strong case of murder in the first degree.

The warrant was served by Deputy Sheriff Willis C. Degraw of Orange County, assisted by Detectives Barney

STRIKERS ASK SWIFT FOR RULING

Thomas G. Connolly, attorney for the striking hotel workers, went to the State House this afternoon and called on Attorney-General Swift to make a ruling as to whether or not the fifty-four-hour law applies to women and minors employed in hotels. The statute refers to mercantile and manufacturing establishments, but does not specify hotels. The union people contend that the law covers hostelries.

In case Mr. Swift rules to this effect the attorney for the strikers will ask District Attorney Pelletier to present the cases of all proprietors to the Grand Jury with a view to seeking indictments for violations of the law.

Talk of Nation-Wide Strike.

A country-wide strike against all hotels whose management is affiliated with the hotel men's national organization is threatened on account of the way in which strike-breakers were brought to Boston for the Boston hotel employes' strike.

This was learned today, following the departure to New York of Edward Bloch-linger, general organizer for the International Hotel Workers' Union. He is attending a meeting in New York today of the executive committee of the international which is debating the question of calling out the employes from every hotel from Boston to San Francisco where the hotel is allied with the hotels' national association.

Bloch-linger alleges that the manner in which strike-breakers were smuggled into Boston in preparation for strikes at the local hostelries is proof of a plan among the hotel managements to crush out hotel unionism.

"The managers and proprietors of these

Jack Johnson's Wife Suicide Misery Drove Her to Death Lonely Among Another Race

Woman Once Petted Society Belle Shunned Even by Relatives of Her Colored Husband.

MRS. "JACK" JOHNSON.

CHICAGO, Sept. 12.—Mrs. "Jack" Johnson, the white wife of the negro pugilist, died early today in the Provident Hospital, a suicide from loneliness and shame. Her last words, spoken to her two colored maids before she sent them from her room last night so she could shoot herself were:

"God pity a poor woman who is lonely."

Before she spoke these words she had talked to a neighbor.

"I am a white woman and am tired of being a social outcast. I have paid of my misery for marrying a black man. Even the negroes don't respect me—they hate me. I intend to end it all."

Such were the last words of a woman only thirty-two years old—who was the petted daughter of a rich Long Island fam

Umpires—Orth and Klem.
Attendance—3,569.

THE GAME.

FIRST INNING.

Chicago—Sheckard lifted a high foul to Rariden. Miller lined to Campbell in deep centre field. Tinker died to Titus. NO RUNS.

Pilgrims—Campbell batted the first ball pitched toward third. It was so unexpected that neither Zimmerman nor Toney could field it in time. McDonald hit to Tinker near second base. The Cub shortstop took the ball on the run, touched second, forcing Campbell, and by a quick throw to Saier doubled McDonald. Tinker then threw out Sweeney. NO RUNS.

SECOND INNING.

Chicago—Zimmerman half struck at a wide one and then tried to pull his bat away, but he hit the ball and it went over first just inside the foul line and rolled to the fence. Zimmerman getting a lucky two-base hit. Saier popped to Sweeney. Downs sent a single to right field. Titus shot the ball on a line to Rariden, and Zimmerman, who was half way between third and home, turned back, but was nailed at third. Titus to Rariden to McDonald. Rariden dropped Lesch's high foul, after which Lesch died to Campbell. NO RUNS.

Pilgrims—Kirke sent up one which Sheckard, Tinker and Lesch ran for. Lesch finally taking it. Titus was hit by a pitched ball. Houser died to Sheckard. Maranville was too anxious, striking out on three pitched balls. NO RUNS.

THIRD INNING.

Chicago—Cotter grounded to Houser. Hess tossed out Toney. Sheckard fouled to Rariden. NO RUNS.

Pilgrims—Rariden walked. Hess bunted along the third base line. As Tinker ran to second to take the throw from Zimmerman he fell over the base and the ball rolled to centre field. Rariden went to third and Hess was safe on the error. Campbell tripled to the left field fence, scoring Rariden and Hess. McDonald hit one to Downs too hot for him to handle and Campbell scored, Mac being safe at first. Sweeney bunted and beat Toney's throw to first. Kirke singled to left, scoring McDonald. Titus bunted toward third base, and Toney having fallen down on these before, Saier, who was playing well in, tried to field the ball, but Titus was safe at first. Reulbach replaced Toney. Houser bounded one to Saier. The ball glanced off his glove and Sweeney scored, but Downs picked up the ball and beat Houser to first. Maranville hit to Reulbach, and IKirke, attempting to score, was caught between third base and the plate, Reulbach to Cotter to Zimmerman to Cotter. Titus took third on the play, and when Cotter threw wild to second trying to head off Maranville, who dashed for second during the play on Kirke, Titus raced to the plate. He beat Miller's throw home, but there was an argument as to where he touched the plate. The Umps finally gathered around Umpire Orth, leaving third base uncovered and Maranville sprinted to third without any attempt being made to catch him. Downs threw out Rariden. SIX RUNS.

FOURTH INNING.

Chicago—Miller popped to Maranville. Tinker singled to centre. Zimmerman died to Kirke. Saier grounded to Houser. NO RUNS.

Pilgrims—Madden replaced Reulbach. Hess died to Miller. Campbell singled to centre. He tried to make two bases on the hit but was thrown out at second, Tinker to Zimmerman ran back of the box making a good stop and threw out McDonald. NO RUNS.

FIFTH INNING.

Chicago—Downs died to McDonald. Sweeney threw out Lesch. Houser dropped Cotter's easy foul fly back of first base, after which the batter grounded to Maranville, who threw him out at first. NO RUNS.

Pilgrims—Sweeney hit to Downs, who tried to take the ball on the short bound and fumbled it. Bill being safe at first. Kirke sacrificed, Zimmerman to Saier. Downs squared himself for his error by making a brilliant one hand stop of Titus' drive, the runner was out, Downs to Saier. Houser died the same way. NO RUNS.

SIXTH INNING.

Chicago—Rariden dropped Madden's third strike, but threw him out at first. Sheckard grounded to Houser. Miller lined to Maranville. NO RUNS.

Pilgrims—Maranville boosted to Lesch. Tinker threw out Rariden. Hess bounded one which hit the centre of the plate and beat it out. Campbell singled to left, his fourth successive hit. Both runners advanced on a wild pitch. McDonald walked, filling the bases. Sweeney forced McDonald, Tinker to Downs. NO RUNS.

HELD FOR DOORWAY THEFT.

Joseph Bresnahan, twenty-four of Lenox street speared before Judge Burke in the police court today, charged with stealing $55 and a gold watch from Michael Murjoney of Savin Hill, in a doorway at No. 15 Rose street a year ago. Bresnahan pleaded not guilty and was held in $2,000 for a hearing September 19.

INSANITY PLEA FOR DOOMED SLAYER

In a last desperate effort to save the life of Bertram G. Spencer, condemned to die the first of next week, his mother, Mrs. Kate E. Spencer, and his attorney, Richard B. Stapleton, sought additional affidavits today to show that Spencer is insane and to induce Governor Foss to refer the case to the Executive Council.

All hope was practically ended for Spencer when the Governor refused to refer the case to the Council yesterday. There is no regular meeting of this body until next Wednesday, and unless the Governor interferes Spencer will be dead before that time.

Mother Says He Is Insane.

Although Spencer told his mother not to worry any more about him, as he was prepared to die, she refuses to cease her efforts in his behalf. Mrs. Spencer declares her son is insane; that he has manifested these tendencies all his life; that he inherited the taint.

While the mother of Spencer was putting forth her best efforts in behalf of her son, relatives of Chester S. Jordan and his attorneys were musing facts to show he is insane and save him from the electric chair in which he is sentenced to die a week later than Spencer.

Jordan is in the East Cambridge jail. Preparations were made to move him to a death cell, near that occupied by Spencer, today. Jordan's case was not mentioned

NEGRO TROOPERS IN RIOT IN COLORADO

TRINIDAD, Col., Sept. 12.—Negro soldiers belonging to the Ninth Cavalry, bound from Fort D. A. Russell to the Mexican border, who stopped off here yesterday while their cars were awaiting train connections, nearly caused a riot by their alleged conduct towards citizens. It is said the troopers insulted several white women. When their cars departed fifty of their number could not be found.

GUILD DODGES POLITICAL QUIZ

Looking as brown as a berry and as happy as a twentieth century Mark Tapley, ex-Governor Curtis Guild came home to Boston on the Lucania on a brief respite from his duties at St. Petersburg as United States Ambassador at the Court of the Czar.

A large corps of reporters and press photographers went down the harbor on board the revenue cutter to meet Mr. Guild. But, aside from the picture men the Ambassador was no good for copy. For all he said, or rather didn't say, the reporters might as well stayed at their desks.

He readily posed for the photographers. Indeed, the first man he shook hands with was Richard W. Sears, the AMERICAN'S camera star, whom the Ambassador greeted with:

"I picked you out from all the others up there on the upper deck of the Wanderimmer as she drew near our ship."

"Governor," said Dick, "the Red Sox won."

"Three cheers," said the loyal Bostonian, and that was as far as he got in letting go of his feelings.

BULL MOOSERS QUIZ ASPIRANTS

Bull Moosers today, through Matthew Hale, chairman of the Roosevelt Progressives, put things up squarely to all Republican candidates for State office.

Chairman Hale asks answers to seven questions, so framed that the Roosevelt wing of the Republican party may determine whether Republican candidates are real simon-pure Progressives or whether they are using the title of the new Roosevelt party to help their own particular cause. Here are the questions:

1—Do you believe the Taft delegates from California should have been seated?

2—Do you believe the Taft delegates from Arizona should have been seated?

3—Do you believe the Taft delegates from Texas should have been seated?

4—Do you believe the Taft delegates from Washington should have been seated?

5—Do you believe that Taft was lawfully nominated?

6—Do you believe that Taft was the choice of the majority of the Republican voters?

7—Do you believe in the methods used by the Taft managers at the Chicago convention?

The primaries come September . Today's questions indicate open warfare by the Roosevelt wing against both the straight-out Republicans and the associated progressives. These last will today indorse either Colonel Everett C. Benton or Joseph Walker for Governor. Indications point to the indorsement of Benton.

WILSON MEETS DIX AND MURPHY

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Sept. 12.—The most notable gathering of Democrats ever held in the State of New York, outside of a State convention, was assembled in this city today. It brought together under one roof the party's nominee for President, a United States Senator, the Governor of the State, the Lieutenant-Governor, the leader of Tammany Hall, and scores of men high in the councils of the party in both State and nation.

Their meeting was fraught with significance for the party in New York and in the United States. On the result of the conferences that they held and their deliberations rests in a large measure the policy that is to be adopted. This is especially true when applied to the State of New York.

The common ground for these great men of the party was the Onondaga Hotel, where Charles F. Murphy of Tammany Hall met Governor Woodrow Wilson of New Jersey for the first time since the Democratic national convention named him as its standard bearer in Baltimore.

Governor Dix, head of the Empire State, and Lieutenant-Governor Conway met and took hands with Governor Wilson. United States Senator O'Gorman, looked upon as Governor Wilson's representative and right-hand man in this State, saw the two governors and talked with the Tammany leader.

COLONEL RAPS OLD PARTIES

LA GRANDE, Ore., Sept. 12.—Colonel Roosevelt opened a day of campaigning in eastern Oregon here with a speech before breakfast. From his train the ex-President went to a public square where he denounced boss rule and upheld the Progressive party as the instrument of pure politics.

"I am in this fight only because I feel that neither of the old parties cares a rap about the people," said the Colonel. "My critics say I am in it only to advance my own interests. If that were my purpose I would fail. This is not a one-man affair. It is an outgrowth of a sentiment that has gradually been gaining force in this country. A feeling of restless discontent with the old parties prevails. The Progressive party stands ready to fulfil its promise of improving the condition of those who are obliged to work for their living. While we want the wealthy men of the country with us, we do not want the laws adjusted so that they alone shall get the benefit. If we don't have uniform laws, to be of advantage to every one, we will fall in our idea of popular government."

The Colonel exploited his idea of the minimum wage for women, saying:

"My opponent, Mr. Wilson, does not agree with me that this ought to be done. Perhaps after he has studied it, he will find that I am right. I don't depend on books for my knowledge of conditions. I have studied them at close range, and I know what problems actually confront the working men and women of the country."

Roosevelt will reach Boise, Idaho, late in the day. He speaks there tonight.

POLITICAL NEWS

Although not a Roosevelt supporter, Dennis F. Reardon of Ward 19 has a genuine Roosevelt family. There are eleven children in the Reardon family, but unfortunately none of them are old enough to go to the polls and help him win a Democratic House nomination.

Senator Jimmy Powers has completed his series of Summer outings for the children and henceforth politics will occupy his attention. He entertained over 6,000 children of the Sixth Senatorial District and as a result he has as many enthusiastic rooters among the "kids" to his fight for renomination.

When Ex-Alderman John Baldwin was in politics, John H. Buckley was his campaign manager. Now that Baldwin has retired from politics Buckley aspires to public office and the ex-Alderman is acting as his campaign manager. He is a candidate for a Democratic House nomination in Ward 24.

The Ward 21 Democratic committee is traveling in the middle of the road with regard to the gubernatorial contest. Although John Kennedy, the chairman, was the first delegate to cast his ballot for Governor Foss at Baltimore, out of respect to the fact that the District Attorney comes from Ward 21, the committee has decided to remain neutral.

There are two Fitzgeralds for the Senate, both from Dorchester, Mayor John F. is a candidate for the United States Senate and Redmond S. is a candidate for the State Senate from the Eighth District. "Fitzgerald for the Senate" is the slogan of both candidates.

The Roxbury and South End real estate owners who want the Boston Elevated pulled down from Castle street to Dudley street are busy lining up the legislative candidates for a bill to abolish the overhead structure and replace it with a subway.

Governor Foss and the members of the Executive Council were in the western part of the State today inspecting the various State institutions there. Incidentally the Governor is finding time to meet some of the Democratic leaders in western Massachusetts and is putting in some work in behalf of his candidacy for re-nomination.

Representative John J. Creed of Ward 15, who is seeking a re-nomination at the hands of the Democratic voters of the South Boston ward, is the fifth member of the Creed family to serve in the House of Representatives. He is a brother of Michael J. Creed, who was honored by Governor Foss yesterday with an appointment to an associate judgeship of the Boston Municipal Court.

Chairman "Tom" Riley of the Democratic State Committee and George M. Harlow, Governor Foss' assistant private secretary and political adviser, are in accord on one thing at least; and that is that Governor Foss will be renominated and re-elected. This is the first time that "Tom" and George have been in accord on anything since their little scrap over the chairmanship of the State Committee.

Timothy F. Callahan of Ward 9, who is fighting Senator "Tom" Joyce for the senatorial nomination in the Fourth District, is confident that he will turn the tables on "Tommy" this time. Joyce beat Callahan for the place last year after one of the hottest fights ever waged in the district. Callahan is backed by Congressman Curley, and Joyce has the support of the Kelliher-Donovan-Doyle faction.

BRYAN TO FOLLOW ROOSEVELT TRAIL

CHICAGO, Sept. 12.—William Jennings Bryan on Saturday will start on a great speaking tour that will take him throughout the country on the trail of Theodore Roosevelt. Bryan will begin his tour in Colorado, and it is expected he will be kept constantly on the move until the campaign closes. According to present plans, Bryan will enter every State in which Roosevelt has been campaigning. It is planned to have him follow the Colonel closely during the last few weeks before election.

BELASCO SAYS STAGE WILL CORRECT LIFE

CHICAGO, Sept. 12.—David Belasco thinks that modern life is becoming too commercial and unromantic, but he predicts that the stage eventually will correct this situation. In a statement in the October Green Book, about to be issued, Belasco in part says: "Love—clean, wholesome, romantic, and if possible domestic love, will be the popular exposition of the theatre of tomorrow."

An Added Service: Deposit Accounts

SURPRISING, when one comes to think of it, how many worthy handmaidens of good shopping are just coming into recognition. They have been waiting at the doorpost of Right Merchandising for so long a time that those who finally summon them wonder why they had not done so in the beginning of things.

Take the matter of paying for merchandise purchased in this store. Three methods had been open to our patrons. Payment could be made at time of purchase, upon delivery of goods or at the end of the month.

That seemed to cover every need of the case. But now comes a fourth method that seems quite as essential to good storekeeping as any of the others.

We term it the Filene Deposit Account System.

And this is the way of it:

A customer may deposit with us any sum of money from $1 to $1000.

Purchases made in this store may be charged against such deposit.

Interest at the rate of 5 per cent a year will be credited quarterly on unspent balance.

Deposits may be withdrawn at any time, but checks cannot be drawn against them, as we do not do a banking business.

The Filene Deposit Account combines the convenience of the usual charge account with the advantages of a savings account.

For example:

Sept. 1.	Mr. A. deposits with us		$200.00
Sept. 10.	Mrs. A. buys a tailored suit at	$35.00
	A hat at	18.00
	Shoes at	7.00
		$60.00
Oct. 3.	Miss A. selects new apparel to the amount of	90.00
Nov. 15.	Master A. picks out his winter overcoat, costing	11.00
	Total		161.00
Nov. 30.	We find a balance to Mr. A's credit of		$39.00
	To which we promptly add interest on the average daily balance at 5% per annum, or		1.07
	And Mrs. A. starts the Holiday shopping with a credit balance of		$40.07

She has had, during the three months, the satisfaction of knowing that the family expenditures were well within the limit.

Anyone may open a Filene Deposit Account with us at any time.

MR. HEARST ON AMERICAN HONOR

United States Honors Its Treaties; Britain Cannot Say the Same, He Declares.

LONDON, Sept. 12.—The London Daily Express publishes the following:

To the Editor of the Express:

Sir—You ask me to discuss the Panama Canal question. It seems to me that from the American point of view the Panama Canal question has been sufficiently discussed and sufficiently decided. If foreign peoples desire to continue the discussion, they are certainly at liberty to do so, but I see no reason why America or Americans should discuss the matter further.

The attitude of the United States is quite clear and the action of the United States has been quite definite and determinate. The action of the United States is based upon the facts as we see them and in accordance with a standard of honor quite as high—do you it moderately—as that which prevails in any foreign country.

The assertion of the English press that the government of the United States has sacrificed its honors and violated a treaty simply because the United States did not construe the terms of the treaty in accordance with England's claims and convenience would be extremely offensive if it were not supremely ridiculous. Fortunately the people of the United States have both a sense of honor and a sense of humor.

England Shouldn't Criticise.

As a matter of fact, the United States has not violated any treaty, and, as a matter of further fact, if the United States had violated a treaty, England is the last nation which would be in a position to criticise us for so doing. It should be remembered that England did not acquire the name of perfidious Albion without having duly earned it.

The Tibet situation is one example of England's violated treaties and unpudiated guarantees. The Persian situation is another example. Russia, in spite of definite guarantees of Persian independence, is subjecting that helpless people to characteristically cruel outrage and oppression, and England not only in defiance of solemn pledges, but in flagrant disregard of the most sacred obligations of civilization and humanity, has become Russia's responsible accessory, not to say accomplice.

The Egyptian situation is another evidence of the suitableness of England's subriquet. Kindly contrast the attitude of England in permanently occupying Egypt in violation of her pledges and the attitude of the United States in evacuating Cuba after we had won the Spanish war and liberated Cuba.

Cuba had been a Spanish possession, and the United States might properly have claimed it as a spoil of that war, but the United States abandoned Cuba after it had restored order in the island, merely on the honorable obligation of an informal promise to do so.

It seems to me that the people of the United States are controlled more by matters of sentiment and questions of abstract justice and honor than any other nation.

The United States is a republic based on principles of equal rights and universal justice. We are the one nation which allows inconvenient ideas of honor and discommoding questions of abstract justice and fundamental right to intrude themselves into our international relations.

Old Treaty Not Perpetuated.

Our ideas of honor, however, do not and should not mean that we must decide every debatable point in a treaty in favor of the opposing party to the treaty, or submit our case to the judgment of other international parties, nearly all of whom have shown their lack of political conscience whenever treaty stipulations or moral questions interfered with their material interests.

It is not, therefore, better for the English press to take a little more moderate and tolerant view of the situation and recognize the plain fact that the people of the United States are not any more hopelessly depraved than are the people of England, and that the standard of honor in the United States is not any lower than it is in England?

The position of the United States in this Panama matter is clear enough and its argument is conclusive enough. In the first place the Hay-Pauncefote treaty is not a perpetuation of the Clayton-Bulwer treaty. It is a substitution for the Clayton-Bulwer treaty. The Hay-Pauncefote treaty was negotiated with the intention of excluding certain provisions of the Clayton-Bulwer treaty, and therefore the provisions of the Clayton-Bulwer treaty which are not in the Hay-Pauncefote treaty are provisions that are not only not perpetuated but are definitely rejected.

Treaty Has Not Been Violated.

In the second place, since the negotiation of the Hay-Pauncefote treaty the rights of the United States in the canal and the relation of the United States toward the canal have entirely changed. The United States has acquired by purchase territory through which the canal passes, and the Canal Zone is now as much the property of the United States as the Capitol at Washington which the British burned in 1813 as an evidence of their sensitive regard for all international conventionalities and properties.

The United States is not willing to concede that a treaty applies with exactly the same force to a domestic possession of the United States as it might apply to an enterprise projected, through foreign territory.

In the one the United States has a sentimental interest and a patriotic duty, in the other the United States has only a financial interest and a general obligation.

Yet apart from all this the United States has violated no provisions of the Hay-Pauncefote treaty. It has merely construed in its own interests certain dubious paragraphs which England would have preferred to have had construed in her interests.

In this is involved not so much a question of honor as a question of precaution and patriotism. As far as a question of honor is involved the United States is maintaining its accustomed high standard of honor, and is capable of further maintaining it.

In view of which facts the abusive attitude of the English press seems altogether unjustified, and, to tell the truth, is getting somewhat upon the nerves even of Americans like myself who are particularly well disposed toward England and anxious to see England and the United States maintain the most cordial relations.

NEW ENGLAND'S GREAT CASH HOUSE

Friday Three-Hour Sales

IT IS NO ADVANTAGE TO THE CUSTOMER to buy poor goods at low prices. Real bargains mean goods of a given quality purchased at a price below the prevailing price of the same quality. "Bargain" is a word that should be carefully used in advertising announcements, and it is with very great care, and positive truth, that we apply it in our Friday Sales. The following merchandise is marked at "bargain" prices, and are bargains in every sense of the word.

TAFT WEAKNESS MORMON HELP

—Alfred H. Lewis.

By ALFRED HENRY LEWIS.

NEW YORK, Sept. 12.—Yesterday I received a letter from a bad-tempered friend of Mr. Taft. The bad-tempered one complained that I recently—and greatly—underrated a Mormon importance in politics. Also, he said, that I was urging the success of Mr. Roosevelt through sheerest stress of friendship and not from an anxiety to serve the public good.

Calls Taft Weak.

Mr. Taft?

How can one who knows public conditions give him his support? His heel has been found weaker than the serpent's head. It was of the Tafts and their wool hill vetoes and such like trinketry of government that the prophet was thinking when he said: "Thy princes are rebellious and companions of thieves: every one loveth gifts and followeth after rewards; they judge not the fatherless, neither doth the cause of the widow come unto them." I have the Bible on my side when I refuse to champion Mr. Taft.

Attend now as to a Mormon strength and a Mormon feeling: Taking feeling first, what said Brigham Young in the days when old Joe Smith reigned supreme as Prophet? Said Brigham Young—and its the Church word now as strongly as when he uttered it:

"The first principle of our cause and work is to understand that there is a prophet in the Church. He is at the head of the Church. Who called Joseph Smith to be a prophet? God, and not the people. Had the people appointed a prophet he would have been accountable to the people. But, inasmuch as he was called by God, he is accountable only to God, and not to any man on earth. We, the twelve apostles, are accountable to the prophet.

"Mormons, Not Americans."

There you have the Mormon feeling toward the prophet. Now consider the Mormon feeling toward the United States, as expounded by Apostle Orson Pratt. Said that mighty Mormon trailer—and his precepts are taught as parcel of the modern Mormon lesson:

"The Kingdom of God (the Mormon Church) is an order of government established by divine authority. It is the only legal government that can exist. All other governments are illegal and unauthorized. God, having made all beings and worlds, has the supreme right to govern them by His own laws, and by officers of His own appointment. Any people attempting to govern themselves by laws of their own making, and by officers of their own appointment, are in direct rebellion against the Kingdom of God."

You have been given above some picture of the feeling of the Mormon viper on the national hearth; take a look at it now for its size and ponderous powers. A Mormon is never an American, and always a Mormon. Every Mormon owes allegiance not to the country, but to Prophet Smith. It is the Mormon boast that the church can turn eight States Bride out in any given political week.

Mr. Taft is morally and mentally inapt. His moral-mental attitude is of the timid dressing gown kind. He is incapable of doing anything he can't do sitting down. He can get angry, but he can't get up. All of which unfits him for a presidency.

GUARDIANS BIGOTED, SAYS KING, QUITTING

NEW YORK, Sept. 12.—Horatio C. King, candidate for State Comptroller on the Progressive ticket, sent the following letter to the New York American:

"I notice that my name has been mentioned in the papers as a member of the Guardians of Liberty. I permitted my name to be used with this organization upon the request of General Sickles. I was informed the object was simply the preservation of American institutions, and was not aimed at any church or sect. As soon as I discovered its real principles I promptly sent in my resignation. I have no sympathy with the bigotry manifested by the leading representative of that body."

SHOOT AT GIRL IN ARLINGTON

A shot fired at Miss Katherine Finegan of Randolph when she was near Cleveland street and Broadway, Arlington, caused great excitement.

Miss Finegan, who was visiting Frank C. Ahearn, No. 22 Cleveland street, was on her way to take a car for Boston when a man jumped out of the darkness and fired a shot at her. She said she heard the bullet whiz over her head.

Miss Finegan ran back to the home of Mr. Ahearn, and in a short time the matter was reported to the police. Several persons in the neighborhood assert they heard a revolver shot. A boy was seen about this time on Cleveland street, and when under the rays of an arc light was seen apparently examining some object. Miss Finegan thinks her assailant was a full-grown man, but in the dark she may easily have been mistaken, and it is generally believed that the shot was fired by a boy in a spirit of mischief.

Wins Leap Year Prize of $25
Charlestown Girl a Bride

Spurred by American's Offer, Mrs. McGoff Proposed, and Now They're Married.

LEAP YEAR COUPLE.

Mr. and Mrs. George McGoff of Charlestown. Mrs. McGoff proposed Jan. 10, and thereby won the American's prize of $25.

Mrs. George McGoff of Charlestown is today receiving the congratulations of her friends for winning the AMERICAN'S Leap Year prize of $25.

She proposed to her husband January 10 and they were married by the Rev. Fr. George M. Quigley in St. Francis de Sales Church, Charlestown, August 21.

This is Leap Year, and at its beginning last January the AMERICAN endeavored to help girls find husbands by a Leap Year contest.

A great many girls proposed, but the first was Mrs. McGoff, then Miss Katherine Brennan, a brunette. She is eighteen years old.

Miss Brennan is a constant reader of the AMERICAN. She saw a chance to win a husband and $25. She followed the advice of the Leap Year editor of this paper.

This is her own story: "I just popped the question when George called on me. I had previously no intention of taking advantage of Leap Year and asking him to marry me. The advice of the Leap Year editor of the AMERICAN urged me on.

"I advise girls to take advantage of Leap Year. There are only a few months left."

CONGRESSMAN QUIT OWING TO POOR PAY

WASHINGTON, Sept. 11.—Former Representative Eton J. Bowers of Mississippi is in Washington. Mr. Bowers quit Congress voluntarily. "I quit," said he today, "because I could not make both ends meet on the salary of a Congressman. I went back to my law practice, and I am mighty glad of it. The truth is, 90 per cent of the members would quit if they had the courage to take the step. A member of Congress no longer has any independence of thought or judgment. The proletariat is making cowards of all."

$1,000,000 HOUSE FOR WOMEN'S CLUB

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 12.—Mrs. Mathews S. Robertson, president of the organization committee of Los Angeles Woman's Athletic Club, and its other members has accepted the plans for the million-dollar clubhouse which it proposes to build on Hill street, opposite Central Park. The contract is signed. The most prominent society women in Los Angeles are back of the movement. The plan approved is for a twelve-story building.

BOSTON COLLEGE HIGH STARTS YEAR

Boston College High School opened today for the Fall term of what will probably be the last year at the James street institution. Registration has been conducted during the past two days, and indications point to this year being the largest in the history of the school. About 900 pupils are entered. Work on the new buildings of the college at University Heights, Newton, has so far progressed that rooms will be ready for occupancy next

John D. Measures Golfing Drives with Cyclometer on Bike

CLEVELAND, Sept. 12.—One of John D. Rockefeller's golfing opponents has at last made known the oil man's reason for riding a bicycle when playing golf. He does not, as popularly supposed, ride the machine between drives in order to conserve his strength.

He has discovered that bicycling brings into play more muscles than walking. And he has the bicycle rigged so that every time a pedal goes down it measures a certain distance. Hence, riding from the beginning to the end of each drive he knows exactly how long each one is.

Hereafter stories emanating from Forest Hill regarding long drives will have to be accepted as mathematically correct.

AVIATOR PAUL PECK IS KILLED BY FALL

CHICAGO, Sept. 12.—Paul Peck, the Washington aviator, and holder of the American duration record, is dead as a result of a fall while attempting to make too steep a spiral in his twenty-six-foot baby biplane. The heavy engine crashed through the fruit framework when the machine struck the ground, and hit him. He was using a Curtiss flight for the International meet here today.

IS YOUR CHILD'S TONGUE COATED?

If Cross, Feverish, Bilious, Stomach Sour, Give "Syrup of Figs" to Clean Its Little Clogged-Up Bowels.

Mother! Don't scold your cross, peevish child! Look at the tongue! See if it is white, yellow and coated! If your child is listless, drooping, won't sleeping well, is restless, doesn't eat heartily or is cross, irritable, out of sorts with everybody, stomach sour, feverish, breath bad; has stomach-ache, diarrhoea, sore throat, or is full of cold, it means the little one's stomach, liver and 30 feet of bowels are filled with poisons and foul, constipated waste matter and need a gentle, thorough cleansing at once.

Give a teaspoonful of Syrup of Figs, and in a few hours all the clogged up waste, undigested food and sour bile will gently move on and out of its little waste-clogged bowels without griping, nausea or weakness, and you will surely have a well, happy and smiling child again shortly.

Syrup of Figs you are not drugging your children, being composed entirely of luscious figs, senna and aromatics it cannot be harmful, besides they dearly love its delicious taste.

Mothers should always keep Syrup of Figs handy. It is the only stomach, liver and bowel cleanser and regulator needed—a little given today will save a sick child tomorrow. Full directions for children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly printed on the package.

Ask your druggist for the full name, "Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna," prepared by the California Fig Syrup Co. This is the delicious tasting, genuine old reliable. Refuse anything else offered.

Mrs. Beeckman Puts Husband in Training for Political Battle

NEWPORT, Sept. 12.—Mrs. R. Livingston Beeckman, leader of things socially in Newport, is giving her husband a course in strenuous physical exercise as preparation for his campaign for the governorship of Rhode Island.

As a beginning she drove him to the Casino and there played tennis for an hour. Then she took him to Bailey's beach for a swim of more than half an hour and then walked and automobiled with him until luncheon time.

TAFT POSES FOR PICTURES AGAIN

BEVERLY, Sept. 12.—President Taft posed again today for a moving picture camera, met several delegations, had luncheon with two members of his cabinet and dictated a number of letters. He spent a busy day.

Yesterday the moving picture men had the President go through a number of manoeuvres around the grounds of his Summer home, but the pictures were poor, on account of the rain.

Accompanied by Mrs. Taft the President walked around the grounds, stopped and looked at several flowers, and later planted a tree while the picture men snapped him. He enjoyed the situation.

Attorney-General Wickersham, Secretary of the Treasury Franklin MacVeigh and Solicitor Anderson of Washington motored from Brenton Woods, where they had been spending a vacation, to the President's home here and had luncheon.

83-Cent Day for Hotel Porters, Says Striker

Proprietors Not So Much to Blame, He Explains; It's the "Slavery" System.

Why the hotel porters are on strike in a number of high-class Boston hotels, and the betterments they hope to secure through their local union, is told by John F. Doyle, one of the strikers. The conditions portrayed by Mr. Doyle, it is said, are not confined to any one hotel locally. Aside from the losses that have prented the concessions asked for by the union for this class of work, the evils complained of are general throughout the city.

In some of the hotels, where the strike still is on, the waiters are out in sympathy with the porters. With the chambermaids, kitchen women, bell boys and other classes of help, they are all combined in one union to fight for what they term their common good.

By JOHN F. DOYLE.

I am a hotel porter, having followed the calling locally for ten years, and am on strike for the following reasons:

The standard wage paid porters in the highest priced hotels in Boston is never over eighty-three cents a day. In a number of houses the pay is below that. From this amount we are expected to house, clothe, feed and educate our children.

JOHN F. DOYLE.

After working at the business in this city for ten years, before God I can truthfully say that a porter's life is little short of slavery. And this without accusing any hotel proprietor of inhumanity towards his employes. The evils have grown up with the system, and we are fighting the system rather than the hotels.

Some people say that, if our pay is low, porters ought to get along comfortably with the tips given them by guests of the different hotels. But we don't get the tips to keep; they go to the head porter. That's one of our principle grievances.

Under the system in operation in every high priced hotel in this city, the privilege of looking after baggage is let out to some one man, usually for a money consideration.

This man, called the head porter, hires us to do the work, taking his chances (?) on the generosity of the traveling public.

In return for the maximum of eighty-three cents a day that he pays us as wages, the head porter compels us to turn over all our tips to him.

When a porter carries a trunk, or a suit case up stairs, the head porter lays in wait for him at the foot of the stairway.

By some process of averages, which he has figured out, we are expected to handle fifty pieces of baggage a day, and somehow collect a twenty-five cent tip from each guest.

If there are a dozen trunks to be carried up stairs, that belonging to the guest known to be the big tipper always must be attended to first.

And even then, if the guest in question is not to his liking in the line, we are compelled to wait until he returns so that we can collect for the head porter.

I recall one big party-baggage lot handled at a local hotel, where the tip was $10 for the porters alone. The head porter was given $10, and his assistant $8, with the understanding that the two men who did the actual work of handling the trunks were to get $2 apiece from that.

But the men who did the work, the porters, didn't get a penny out of this big tip. It all went to the head porter. He collected under threat of discharge, as his kind always does.

One of the best known head porters in this city today is worth a quarter-million dollars, all of which he got from the men under him in the form of tips.

Another of these men has become so wealthy, through the system, that he is able to maintain a Summer and a Winter home.

Still another of them, within the last ten years, has put up a number of houses, and without exception every head porter who has been in the business very long, and to be married, maintains his retinue of servants.

We do the work, and the guests suppose that we reap the benefit of the tips given, but we have to live on 83 cents a day.

The head porter does nothing for the guests, but he wears silk stockings and builds costly houses—out of our money.

Our union demands that porters be given an increase of $5 a month; that to be allowed to keep his own tips; that his food be fit for human beings; that he have a sixty-hour week with two days off a month, and that the head porter be eliminated so far as his control of the present system is concerned.

The average hours worked by the porters are twelve a day, starting at 7 in the morning. Some of the houses, however, compel their porters to report at 6:30 a. m. and work until 6 o'clock at night.

In addition to maintaining our families on our eighty-cent daily wage, we have to provide our own uniforms out of our meagre earnings. A uniform costs $3 and lasts four months.

The fact that porters are entitled to their meals at the hotels is made much of by some of the proprietors. They don't mention the kind of food given us. That, from their view-point, is another thing.

Without exception, the food served the porters in every hotel in this city is made up of left-overs from the dining rooms, scraps of bread and things of that character.

These old scraps, often dirty from frequent handling, are piled on a big tray and placed on the porters' table, like hog-feed thrown in a pig-pen. The meat said about it the better—for the hotel proprietors.

I am personally acquainted with the greater number of porters at work in the Boston hotels. The majority of them are married men. Some of them have families to support.

But, so far as I know, not one of these men has been able to support his wife and family on his individual earnings. In every instance the man who was married had to put his wife or his children to work.

Aside from the question of unionism or non-unionism, I contend that a system that deprives every man who follows a certain calling the right to maintain a home of some sort is not in accordance with the spirit of our institutions.

This strike is for home and children, a contest for the right to life, liberty and happiness.

The legalized theft of our tips by the head porters of a necessity must be stopped, if we are to live a normal life.

Our liberty to combine with our fellow toilers, for self protection, must be maintained. That's why we are striking, and why we purpose continuing this contest until victory rewards the efforts of our union.

WOMEN TELL OF TOIL IN HOTELS

hotels are members of national organizations.

The plan of the executive committee of the International Hotel Workers' Union is to strike at the hotel men's organization and force a recognition of the union that way.

At a mass meeting in Faneuil Hall many women told of working seventy-five and eighty hours a week at a wage of $18 to $25 a month. A committee was appointed to attempt to obtain action by the State in what are declared to be violations of the 54-hour law.

At the American House today waiters brought to Boston from outside were put to work in the main dining room, which had been closed since the hotel was walked out.

The pay of the strike-breakers is big compared with what the striking waiters say they received. The men brought here to fill places of those out get $5 a day. They would not consider taking regular jobs, it is asserted. The agency in New York is ready to bring as 2,000 men and women, it is asserted.

At the Faneuil Hall meeting women answering to the names of Bridget, Maggie and Annie were led to the platform and told stories of long hours, small pay and many hardships.

One girl said that on her long day she got up at 3:30 in the morning, went to work at 5:45, and worked until 12 noon. Then she was off until 6 p. m. and worked from 6 to midnight. On the "short day" she worked from noon until 6. She worked seven days a week and got $21 a month.

A vegetable cook said she worked from 6 a. m. to 2 p. m., and from 5:30 to 9 p. m. on her long days and on her short days from 9 a. m. to 7 p. m., seven days a week; in all, seventy-seven hours a week.

Jacob Pasker, of New York, principal attorney for the International Hotel Workers' Union, was the principal speaker.

Mr. Hochlinger and Thomas G. Connolly, lawyer for the local union, also made speeches.

Is Our Earth Being All Made Over?

Startling scientific reasons for the belief that this globe is dying in spots, and that we are already beginning our next glacial age, and that brand-new continents will make their appearance on the earth's surface.

TYPO UNION DAY ON FLOATING HOSPITAL

Today is Boston Typographical Union day on the Boston Floating Hospital, this most commendable way of giving the children of the poor an opportunity to breathe the invigorating sea air and at the same time receive the care and advice of the trained corps of physicians and attendants meeting with the hearty approval of the union printers of the city. With its splendid home and sanitarium for the sick and aged members at Colorado Springs, its old-age pension of $5 per week for superannuated members and its funeral benefit of $900, the Typographical Union is one of the foremost humanitarian organizations in our country. The tuberculosis sanitarium was declared by the International Tuberculosis Congress at Washington to be the best in America. All these beneficial features are maintained solely by the funds of the union, no appeal ever being made to other organizations or to the public.

AMERICAN CARDINAL APPEARS ASSURED

VIENNA, Sept. 12.—The death of Cardinal Coullie of Lyons, France, was an important topic of unofficial discussion at the eucharist congress here today. Inasmuch as there are now nine vacancies in the Sacred College, it was the consensus of opinion that the elevation of another American prelate to the cardinalate, which was looked likely even when there were only eight vacancies, has become a practical certainty.

IDENTIFY BODY AS D. F. GRIFFIN

ESSEX, Sept. 12.—The body of a man found in White Field, about half a mile from the Essex road, with a bullet wound in his head and a revolver clasped in his hand, was today identified as that of Dudley F. Griffin of Federal street, Beverly, son of Dudley N. Griffin, who has been missing since September 2. The body, Medical Examiner Bailey thought, lay on the ground at least two days.

Mr. Griffin was expected here today to see if the body is that of his son.

The man had on black clothes, was about twenty-five years old, and weighed about 200 pounds. The description answers to that of Griffin with the exception of his age.

FEDERALS WIN MEXICAN FIGHT

WASHINGTON, Sept. 11.—The Mexican federal forces are reported to have gained a decisive victory near Chichillo, driving back the revolutionists with heavy losses. The rebels, 1,000 strong, are retreating on Coahuila with the federals in close pursuit.

Four hundred and fifty Mexican federal soldiers, under command of General Sanjines, have passed through American territory from El Paso, Tex., to Douglas, Ariz., according to dispatches to the War Department today. The government troops consisted chiefly of Yaqui Indians, provisioned for a long campaign.

Much ceremony attended the resumption of the arms by the troops, they being presented with their rifles and cartridge belts while standing on the Mexican side of the border. This was done to prevent even a technical violation of the unwritten law regarding passage through the United States of a foreign armed force. The Mexicans were accompanied through Texas and Arizona by a guard of American soldiers.

Fifteen hundred of the rifles and carbines intended for the use of Americans at Cananea have arrived at Naco, where they are being held pending the repairing of the railways and bridges leading to the interior.

UPSET STOMACH AND INDIGESTION

Heartburn, Gas, Sourness or Dyspepsia Ended in Five Minutes with "Pape's Diapepsin."

Time it! In five minutes all stomach distress will go. No indigestion, heartburn, sourness or belching of gas, acid, or eructations of undigested food, no dizziness, bloating, foul breath or headache.

Pape's Diapepsin is noted for its speed in regulating upset stomachs. It is the surest, quickest and most certain remedy in the whole world, and besides it is harmless.

Millions of men and women now eat their favorite foods without fear—they know now it is needless to have a bad stomach.

Please, for your sake, get a large fifty-cent case of Pape's Diapepsin from any drug store and put your stomach right. Don't keep on being miserable—life is too short—you are not here long, so make your stay agreeable. Eat what you like and digest it; enjoy it, without dread of rebellion in the stomach.

Diapepsin belongs in your home anyway. It should be kept handy, should one of the family eat something which doesn't agree with them or in case of an attack of indigestion, dyspepsia, gastritis or stomach derangement at daytime or during the night it is there to give the quickest, surest relief known.

THAW 'NO MORE CRAZY THAN COL. ROOSEVELT'

MATTEAWAN, N. Y., Sept. 12.—The Rev. Dr. John A. Wade, rector of the Church of St. John the Evangelist of New York city, declares Harry K. Thaw is no more insane than Theodore Roosevelt, and asserts Thaw should be liberated. In his opinion he was supported by Dr. John S. Wilsea, Pough-keepsie's health officer, who accompanied the clergyman on a visit to the Matteawan Hospital for Criminal Insane. The Rev. Dr. Wade was Harry Thaw's close friend long before the tragedy.

MINEOLA, N. Y., Sept. 12.—Miss Eleanor Peregrin, it is announced, will receive $155,985.90 from the estate of Walter Duryea, whom she nursed after he broke his neck diving. Duryea, who died in 1911, lived for twelve years after his neck was broken and required constant attention.

WILL DROP CHARGE AGAINST NOLAN IF GIRL IS OVER 18

NEW YORK, Sept. 12.—"I want to be left alone so that I may pray," was the request of young Mrs. Marion McVickar Foster at the Florence Mission in Bleecker street, where thousands of wayward girls have taken the first step toward a better life.

In conformity with this request, Mrs. Luther, the superintendent of the mission, turned away all callers.

The age of Mrs. Foster will be an important factor in the criminal prosecution of the charge of abduction against Harry E. Nolan, whom she accompanied to a hotel. She met him on a steamer from Newport News to New York. When she was asked her age by Mr. Luther she said she was seventeen.

Sumner Gerard, of Gerard & Smith, counsel for Mr. Nolan, has been unofficially informed that Mrs. Porter has passed her eighteenth birthday.

In the District Attorney's office it is said that the charge of abduction would lie in any case where a girl under the age of eighteen accompanied a man, voluntarily or otherwise, to a hotel, while if she were over eighteen and went voluntarily there could be no charge of abduction.

Mrs. Foster is said to be truly repentant. She admits that she was so fascinated with Mr. Nolan that she would have gone to the end of the world with him, but now, so she tells her new friends in the mission, her only wish is to get back to her father's home in Scotland as soon as possible.

SUFFRAGETTES GET ASQUITH ON LINKS

DORNOCH, Scotland, Sept. 12.—Prime Minister Asquith and Home Secretary McKenna were attacked by two suffragettes when golfing on the Dornoch links. The women started by haranguing Mr. Asquith, and when Mr. McKenna tried to push them away a scuffle followed. Mr. McKenna, with a detective who came to his assistance, with difficulty prevented the women from getting at Asquith. The suffragettes were marched to the police station.

SAY WOMAN SMOKED IN THE WHITE HOUSE

WASHINGTON, Sept. 12.—Washington society buzzed today with gossip about the story that a woman guest—the report said she was a fitted American—had smoked a cigarette at the last White House garden party, in violation of etiquette there. The name of the woman could not be learned.

MISS CHRISTOBEL PANKHURST, WHO IS SAFE IN PARIS

Miss Pankhurst in Paris; Leads Votes Battle from Exile

LONDON, Sept. 12.—Miss Christobel Pankhurst is found at last. She is in Paris and from there will direct the political side of the suffrage movement, according to "Votes For Women," the official organ of the militant suffragettes.

Miss Christobel Pankhurst evaded arrest when her mother, Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst, and Mr. and Mrs. Pethick Lawrence were arrested and tried for conspiracy. Since then she has been reported as in America and a number of other places.

The suffragettes' lawyers advised Miss Pankhurst that she was free from arrest on the warrant still out for her, as her offence, being political, is not extraditable.

DECLARE FOSS IS MAN TO WIN

A rallying cry to the support of Governor Foss as the strongest Democrat in the State and the only man able to carry the Democratic party to victory in Massachusetts was received today by every candidate for a Democratic nomination at the primaries. The Foss campaign committee sent its letters broadcast.

It was decided to bring out a strong Foss sentiment in every section of the State and organize Foss committees in many cities and towns.

The letter sent out by the committee says:

With Governor Foss as a Democratic candidate for Governor, we feel reasonably confident that the entire State ticket as well as a Democratic Legislature will be elected. With any other candidate we would probably lose the entire State ticket, and certainly would lose from twenty-five to thirty doubtful Legislative Districts.

We therefore appeal to you in the name of Wilson and Marshall, our National standard bearers; in the name of the entire Democratic State ticket and for your own personal interest to do all that lies within your power to bring about the nomination of Governor Foss as our strongest candidate.

As convincing evidence of the above claim, we would call your attention to the fact that in the State election two years ago Governor Foss carried Suffolk County by 17,000 votes, while District Attorney Pelletier on the same day and in the same constituency carried his election by only 1,000 votes.

This not only indicates the relative strength of the two men with the people, but also emphasizes the fact that the overwhelming popularity of the Democratic State ticket on that day was the one thing that caused the election of Mr. Pelletier as district attorney.

We would therefore urge upon you not to allow personal ambition or friendship to cast aside a winning candidate and by doing so endanger party success.

DOCKSTADER SETTLES NASHUA POLICEMAN'S SUIT FOR SLANDER

NASHUA, N. H., Sept. 12.—Lew Dockstader has settled with Napoleon Dichard, the Nashua policeman, who sued him for slander, according to the policeman's counsel. The amount is said to have been $200. Dichard objected to some of the minstrel man's reflections on the Nashua policemen's work, which were included in Dockstader's remarks in a local theatre.

Dichard, it is said, did not ask for any public apology from the minstrel. Had the case not been settled it would have come up at some future date after January 1 for trial and Mr. Dockstader was anxious to get away and have the matter over.

"Where Prices Wear Out Automatically and Shoes Take Their Time About It"

Filene's Automatic Bargain Basement

DIRECT ENTRANCES FROM WASHINGTON, SUMMER AND HAWLEY STREETS AND TUNNEL STATION.

A WORD ABOUT THE BASEMENT SHOE SHOPS

With the opening of the new Filene Automatic Bargain Basement, Boston saw for the first time specialty shoe shops operated under a system of Automatic Price Reductions.

Selling Shoes on this basis means that the basement store must give the same kind of bargains that has made it famous as an economy center for the quick distribution of women's and girl's outerwear and underwear.

How else, but by giving bargains, could we accomplish quick selling to avoid the losses?

That unusual value-giving and quick selling have begun is evidenced by Monday's events, when Wm. L. Douglas Oxfords (factory hurt) were all sold out at $1 and when Women's Harney Shoes were also entirely sold out at the same price.

That this value-giving continues is evidenced by the following announcement.

That it will continue to be so is insured by the system of Automatic Price Reductions.

MAKE IT A PLAN TO WALK THROUGH EACH DAY AND SEE THE BARGAINS. HUNDREDS OF THEM EVERY BUSINESS DAY.

CALL JUDGE IN DYNAMITE PROBE

The Suffolk Grand Jury resumed its inquiry into the Lawrence dynamite case at 9:30 today, with a number of prominent Lawrence men on hand in answer to summonses sent out yesterday.

District Attorney Pelletier was in the jury room and the witnesses were taken in and examined promptly.

Those Who Were Summoned.

Among those for whom summonses were issued were:

Fred K. Chandler, associate justice of Lawrence District Court; Johnston Adams, chauffeur for Frederick E. Atteaux; Duncan Wood of Lawrence, agent for the Allan Steamship Line; State Officer Fred F. Flynn, Justin E. Varney, chairman of the Lawrence Committee of Safety; Charles E. Bradley, retired; Leonard E. Bennink, manager and treasurer of the Reed & Hughes Dry Goods Company, and C. J. Corcoran of the Lawrence Trust company.

The three last-named were members with Varney of the committee of safety.

Pelletier's Statement.

District Attorney Pelletier today gave out the following statement:

The statement in some of the papers to the effect that the Lawrence Citizens' Committee was acting with or in the interests of the mill men is absolutely misleading and untrue.

These men acted solely in the interests of Lawrence, and their endeavors were to terminate the strike. They really acted in a way as the intermediary between mill-men and strikers.

The meeting in question was not held at the offices of the American Woolen Company, but at Young's Hotel, and at that meeting they endeavored to get certain concessions in behalf of the strikers but were unsuccessful.

The men on this committee are not under suspicion in any sense and were summoned before the Grand Jury for the sole purpose of giving that body such information as they had obtained during the strike.

TRAINOR'S CASE IS PUT OFF ONE WEEK

In the Municipal Court today, John H. Trainor of Charlestown, who on September 5 shot Miss Gertrude Jordan in a Tremont street department store, had his case again continued for one week by Judge Burke. The bail will stand at $20,000. Miss Jordan, though improving slowly, is still in a critical condition at the Relief Hospital.

A Sick Man

S. B. Hartman, M. D.

Writes Dr. Hartman About Kidney Disease.

A gentleman writes me: I was greatly interested in your article describing the Kaufman case of serious disease of the kidneys. The description of his case exactly outlines my condition. I am sure if Peruna cured him as you say, it would cure me also. I am losing flesh rapidly and the doctors say I have every symptom of Bright's disease of the kidneys. If you think I would be benefited by Peruna I will certainly try some, as the doctors have practically give me up, the same as they did him."

In reply I wish to say, first, that I never make any promises as to what Peruna will cure. No physician can make positive statements of that sort. I can say this much, however, if I were in your place I should certainly give Peruna a trial. I know of no other remedy that would be so likely to be of use to you in your present condition as Peruna. Take a tablespoonful before each meal and at bedtime. Continue this for two or three weeks and then if there is anything you wish to ask me further write me and I will give your letter prompt attention.

If I find that the Peruna is not helping you I will be perfectly frank and tell you so, for I would not have you take Peruna unless it was really helping you. But it has rescued so many cases of kidney disease that I am quite confident you will find it exactly suited to your case.

Kidney disease begins with catarrh of the kidneys. Peruna is a catarrh remedy. Unless the destruction of the kidneys is already too great, Peruna relieves the catarrh and the cause of the kidney disease is removed.

I shall anxiously await a report of your case. Remember, all letters are sacredly confidential. I never use any one's name or address without his written consent. My correspondence is absolutely private.

Peruna is for sale at all drug stores.

SPECIAL NOTICE—Many persons are making inquiries for the old-time Peruna. To such would say, this formula is now put out under the name of KA-TAR-NO, manufactured by KA-TAR-NO Company, Columbus, Ohio. Write them and they will be pleased to send you a free booklet.

"Just the Cheese," Says Caplet Views Opera Rehearsal Annex

ANDRE CAPLET, PHOTOGRAPHED ON SHIPBOARD

Chief Conductor Promises Boston Most Perfect Opera in the World.

Chief Conductor Andre Caplet of the Boston Opera today inspected the new rehearsal building which Mr. Jordan has erected alongside the opera house.

The French language was insufficient to convey Mr. Caplet's appreciation of the annex and he lapsed into English. "It's what you call 'just the cheese,'" said Mr. Caplet. "Now we can have rehearsals all the time, even when performances are going on. Now I shall make the performances in Boston the most artistic the most perfect in the world."

At the far end of the new rehearsal building there is a glass door with "Andre Caplet, private," upon it. Mr. Caplet rushed upon the door with the air of delightful anticipation worn by a small boy on Christmas Eve, and when he was inside he ejaculated some more. Mr. Caplet had an office—which make a bank president look like an office boy's coop. There was mahogany furniture, roll top desk and pictures galore.

Joys of the Coming Season.

Seated in a very large swivel cushioned office chair, Mr. Caplet discussed the coming season.

"Of course our opening performance will be "Tales of Hoffmann" and it will be given with a cast that has never been equaled in America. Frieda Hempel, Marta Edvina, Elizabeth Amsden, Vanni Marcoux and Edmond Clement make a quintet of wonderful power. Then you know that we shall give "Louise" and "Don Giovanni," "The Jewels of the Madonna" and "Forest Bleue."

"Why is Bizet's 'Djamileh' being revived?"

"Oh, that is at the request of Weingartner and he will produce it. There is a wonderful part for Lucille Marcel in the Oriental show, and an excellent tenor part for Clement. An important baritone role will probably be sung by Riddez.

"'Djamileh' has been overshadowed by 'Carmen,' and 'Carmen,' of course, is a much greater work, but it is very beautiful nevertheless and well worth offering to a generation that has never heard it. It is a wonderful study in Oriental coloring."

Better Than Ever Before.

"I assure you that Boston is going to see such opera this Winter as has never been given before in this city, and I doubt if it has ever attempted is quite such an artistic way anywhere."

"My idea, and fortunately I am in accord with Mr. Russell and Mr. Jordan, is to make productions as artistically perfect as possible. An opera can be pushed out very rapidly and satisfy the great mass of the public, but the people who really know realize its shortcomings. I believe in perfecting the little things, in making every detail important; the ensemble must be just as fine as the singing of the stars.

"There may be only half a dozen people in an opera house who can recognize the difference between a practically perfect performance and one which has an excellent general effect. I want them to be satisfied.

"We have been greatly handicapped in the past by the fact that we had no place to rehearse while a performance was going on. This caused us to lose much valuable time.

Expects More Smoothness.

"The new building gives us a chance to work all the time. While an Italian opera is being sung in the theatre we can be preparing a French or German one in the rehearsal building, and the Boston public will quickly recognize its value in the increased smoothness of performances."

Mr. Caplet said he enjoyed a pleasant voyage which was made interesting by the presence of a gentleman who was making a collection of different versions of the opera "Tales of Hoffmann." He said he had seen the opera sixty-five times and each time it had been given in a slightly different manner. He told Mr. Caplet all about them and discovered that the Caplet version of "Tales of Hoffmann" will differ slightly from all the sixty-five others. So he intends to witness the opening performance.

Mrs. Chin Willie to Send Three Children to Boston Schools

Mrs. Chin Willie, one of Boston's Chinese mothers, living at No. 67 Beach street, who has three children, wants them all to be educated in the public schools of Boston.

Already her seven-year-old daughter is attending the Quincy School on Tyler street. She is very anxious that her other daughter, Dorothy, and baby boy, Chin, be educated in America. They are not to forget they are Chinese, but she wants them to claim that they are Americans above everything else.

Before coming to Boston, several months ago, she spent most of her life, after arriving from China, at the age of eight, in California and attended the public schools there.

Isabel Willie's teacher at the Quincy School reports that the Chinese children in that school are some of the brightest and among them she mentions Isabel.

Mrs. Chin Willie does not like the American ways of dressing and sees nothing to admire in the bobbie skirt. She said:

I want my children to learn all they can at school. I've been in this country since I was eight years old and attended the public schools in California. My children must go to American schools as I did. My husband says so, too.

We speak English to our children. They must know all about America. I do not want them to be Chinese children. They can have the name, but they must know American ways. When they can read English well I shall be glad. My husband can write some now, but I want her to write better. She will be a good American woman some day, and can go in the world. Americans.

I don't like that skirt that American women are wearing. You call it bobble. We Chinese women think that it is too tight-fitting. We don't like it. We like things that are loose when we wear them. I think that women do their hair up well. We Chinese are particular with our hair.

I've just come here from California, but I like Boston very much.

DEATHS

CARDINAL PETER HERCULES COULIÉ, archbishop of Lyons, is dead in that city. He was born at Paris in 1839 and was created a cardinal in 1897 by Pope Leo XIII.

THADDEUS GRAVES, president of the New England Tobacco Growers' Association and a former master of the state Grange, is dead at Hatfield, aged seventy-seven.

JAMES H. BEAL, brother of Thomas P. Beal, president of the Second National Bank, is dead at Putney, Vt., aged fifty-six.

MRS. MARY JANE COOKE, widow of the Rev. Henry A. Cooke, a Baptist clergyman, is dead. Her husband was long associated with the Seamen's Bethel on Hanover street.

MRS. HENRIETTA TILDEN BLATCHFORD, sixty-six, widow of Samuel W. Blatchford of New York and a niece of the late Samuel J. Tilden, is dead in New Lebanon, N. Y.

MRS. ELLEN BURNS is dead at the age of one hundred years and four months at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Catherine Flood, No. 61 Tudor street, Chelsea, as the result of her first serious illness.

HERBERT NATHAN FOX, who represented North Wilmington and surrounding towns in the House of Representatives in 1910, died suddenly at his place of business in Wilmington. He was fifty years old. He was grandmaster in Masonic circles. He leaves a wife and three children.

Rivals Her Daughter in Youthful Beauty

(From Social Register.)

A well-known society matron whose youthful beauty is so well preserved that she is regarded by her daughter's friends as their sister—though she does not pose as such—attributes her girlish complexion chiefly to two things. She says:

"I am convinced that creams, by overloading the skin and pores, tend to age the complexion. Marcelized wax has just the opposite effect. It keeps the pores clean, permitting them to breathe, and removes dead particles of cuticle which are constantly appearing and which give the complexion that faded look. Whenever my complexion begins to get a little off-color, I go to my druggist and buy an ounce of marcelized wax. I apply this nightly, like cold cream, for several days, washing it off mornings. This is what keeps my complexion so fresh, white and velvety.

"The absence of wrinkles and dabbiness I owe in part to the use of a simple face bath procured by dissolving one ounce of powdered saxolite in a half pint witch hazel. This keeps the skin tight and firm."

SPINNERS CONVENE; MILL MEN SCORED

The twenty-fourth annual convention of the International Spinners' Union opened today at No. 724 Washington street. Every New England State was represented, also New York. President George Thornton in his opening address urged the delegates to work hard to build up a great defence fund to use in strikes. He urged the convention to take action regarding a shorter work day for the operatives in Rhode Island and Connecticut. He said the New Bedford strike was caused by the open evasion of the weavers fine law by the mill owners. He urged some amendment.

MOTHER STANDS BY SPENCER AS HOPE WANES

PREPARE TO TAKE JORDAN TO DEATH CELL, LAST FIGHT FOR HIM.

to the Executive Council yesterday by the Governor. There would be time to do that, however, next week.

There are many points of similarity between the cases of Spencer and Jordan. Both are young men of good families. Both murdered a woman. It is claimed both are insane.

Jordan's friends have little hope for him. They fear the Governor will take the same attitude regarding his case as he did toward that of Spencer.

His sister, Mrs. Jesse Livermore, has paid what may be her last visit to Jordan in the office of Sheriff Fairbairn. With her were Mr. and Mrs. Fred C. Kendall of Somerville, the prisoner's youngest sister and brother-in-law.

Jordan's counsel, General Charles W. Bartlett, Harvey W. Pratt and Jeremiah E. Sullivan, however, still maintain a lukewarm counsel should be appointed, and declare they will exercise every effort to have the Governor take such action.

"There is no doubt that Jordan is insane," said Mr. Pratt. "It was admitted even by the Governor's medical experts at his trial that he was suffering from a progressive form of spinal disease which eventually would result in insanity, and we contend the disease has now progressed to such an extent Jordan is insane."

The first thing Spencer did after eating a hearty breakfast today was to discuss his belief in Christian Science with his guard.

"It is a wonderful thing," said the condemned man. "If you need evidence of that fact just look at me. You know my position, and yet I eat, sleep and am as cheerful as any one—more cheerful than you are, for instance."

Visited by a Reader.

Mr. Perkins, a Christian Science reader from Springfield, who was Spencer's spiritual adviser at Hampden County Jail and who has just been on a vacation, arrived in Boston today to resume his administrations to the condemned man.

Mr. Perkins was at the prison by 9 o'clock. Deputy Warden Allen immediately escorted him to the death house, where Spencer greeted him with pleasure, if such a word may be used of a man condemned to die.

It was understood that Mr. Perkins would remain in Boston till Spencer's fate was settled.

Mr. Perkins declined, as he was leaving the prison, to discuss the interview he had with Spencer, but said:

"Spencer is wonderfully cheerful. He is concerned more about his mother than he is about himself. He wanted it made clear that he has no complaint to make against any one connected with his prosecution."

Spencer in the talk of the prison and the officials declare that without a question he is the calmest, coolest and most cheerful condemned man they ever saw. When Deputy Warden Allen went to Spencer's cell today he asked:

"How are you feeling today, Bertram?"

"Why, I slept fine last night, Warden," replied Spencer with a smile, "and I feel first rate this morning."

Another Visit to Son.

Mrs. Spencer prepared today to see her son once more and give him what comfort she could. Even the guards at the death cell accustomed to viewing grief and despair of the most poignant sort, are deeply moved by the pathetic interviews between the prisoner and his mother. Forbidden even to touch his hand, the weeping woman talks with the prisoner for many minutes. When she told him the effort to save him had failed, she was before the bars of the cell more than an hour.

Good Advice About Traveling to the Far West and Northwest

Don't leave your arrangements until the last minute. Right now is the time for you to begin to get ready. You will want to take advantage of the low price tickets which go on sale for several weeks. The best thing to do is to see me or write me very soon about your trip. I am employed by the "Burlington Route" to help you in every way possible. Tell me where you want to go in the far West, Northwest or the Pacific Coast, and I can give you complete information about it. I can probably save you some expense, too, and take the little details off your mind, even to engaging your sleeping berth and arranging for your railroad tickets. Please call at my office or drop me a postal asking what you want to know. Alex Stocks, New England Passenger Agent, C., B. & Q. R. R., 284 Washington Street, Boston, Mass.

SPENCER WAS ALWAYS OF ERRATIC TEMPER

Few writers of fiction have equalled in thrilling interest the amazing life story of Bertram G. Spencer, the mysterious masked man who for a year terrorized Springfield, and who will be electrocuted early next week for the murder of Martha B. Blackstone, a school teacher of that city.

Inheriting a taint that at times turned him into a demon, Spencer later became a veritable Dr. Jekyl and Mr. Hyde. During the day he was employed and normal. At night he became a burglar, ready to kill if his life or liberty were menaced.

His final capture, after having eluded the police for a year, came through the loss of a locket bearing his monogram, "B. G. S.," and containing the pictures of his mother and sister. Had this locket been properly utilized when picked up he would have been arrested six months before he murdered Miss Blackstone.

The first chapter of the remarkable story of Spencer's career follows:

CHAPTER I.

BORN UNDER A CLOUD.

THE boy born without a cent but with good, pure blood in his veins, has no mean inheritance.

This ominous cloud hovered over Bertram G. Spencer at his birth. There had been a more or less distinct strain of insanity in his family. It manifested itself in his father and his grandfather in what they were pleased to refer to as a violent temper.

The Spencers were among the leading families of Lebanon, Ct. The father kept a store. Little Bertram was watched carefully for indications that the dangerous strain in the blood had shown in him. The boy had a bad temper. The father reasoned with him while he was small—a mere boy—and then when the temper showed itself when he was nine years old, the old corrective weapon, the switch, was brought into play.

Reports were made in Lebanon that women and girls had been frightened at nightfall. The town was terrorized. It was finally found out that the person who had caused the scare was little Bertram Spencer.

Then the anger in the blood of the father boiled. He whipped the boy unmercifully. He hoped, he said, that this would forever banish this desire to annoy others in the little fellow's mind. Birch switches were used. He was not stuck about the head.

But no switch can beat tainted blood out of a boy.

Bertram was smart. At school he kept up in his studies. He was a sort of dare-devil. The girls liked that. In the mood of the young fellow his companions read heroism. He even carried a revolver. This became noised about, but it was generally believed until one evening he was walking about in the village solitude with a girl, when he was annoyed by some of his boy friends.

"You have been insulted," he said, speaking to the girl.

He drew his revolver and fired at the young fellow who had attempted to torment him. This vicious act was the turning point of his life. He left home. He joined the navy. But the strict discipline of Uncle Sam was even more irksome than that of his father.

His letters home were filled with appeals to be allowed to come home. The father thought he would be safer in the navy. Then the boy tried his mother. His pleas were effected. He returned to his quiet, peaceful Connecticut home.

For two years the boy remained at home. But the breach between him and his father constantly widened. On one occasion the boy became so enraged that he attacked his father with a shovel. On another occasion the father took the boy into the woods, lashed him to a tree and whipped him.

This fact was brought out in court under oath. It carries with it its own comment.

Bertram wanted to "go West" after this. He obtained employment in San Francisco. The great fire came. He was appointed one of the guards of the city. He seems to have done well. Later he drifted back home again and his parents hoped that his experience in the West had done much to pacify the storms that raged within him at times.

The excitement of the railroader appealed to him. His parents did not like it—it was too dangerous. But he obtained employment as a brakeman. When his mother remonstrated because of the dangers of the work, he said:

"Why, there's nothing I like better than standing on the top of a freight car when it is whizzing along at sixty miles an hour!"

It was at this time that he met Miss Minnie Amberg. She was a handsome young woman, and he fell deeply in love. Her parents objected to Spencer because he lacked that steadiness that a careful father demands in the young man who marries his daughter.

CHAPTER II.

TERRORIZED BY ARMED BANDIT.

MARRIED to a charming wife, his father-in-law, Herman Amberg, secured him a position in Springfield. This was with the meat packing establishment of H. L. Handy. He and his wife were popular. They were musical. He had a good baritone singing voice and she played the piano. They were welcome visitors at many homes.

Occasionally as an interlude the young man would tell stories of his exploits in the West—many of them, some of which may have happened in the light of what after occurred, but much of which must have sprung from an imagination strangely tainted.

Spencer was married March 18, 1908. It was a year after that when Springfield began to hear of strange burglaries. The first of the crimes that startled the city took place on April 21, 1909. The home of W. M. Swan of the Forest Park district was the object of attack.

It was 9:15 in the evening. Mr. Swan was upstairs. Three women and a boy were downstairs. The front door of the house was broken open and a masked man leaped in. He had a revolver in his hand.

"I want money," he declared.

The occupants of the room were terror stricken. The masked man fired two shots, breaking a mirror. The women then screamed. Swan, from upstairs, heard the demand. He threw down a pocketbook containing $50. The masked man, taking the money, backed out, threatening to shoot if he were interfered with.

For a year the city of Springfield—rightly called the City of Homes—was terrorized. The most striking burglaries were committed—always by a masked man. Sometimes he obtained money. On other occasions he took jewels.

The stories told were of such a character as to create the belief that the criminal acts were those of the same man. The man was always masked, but he was well dressed and of fine appearance. Sometimes he was even courteous in his demeanor. At other times he was brutal when he met with women who were frightened so that they were completely in his power.

Springfield seethed with excitement. All sorts of stories were told and many people were suspected. The man was referred to as a "Raffles" and as "A Social Highwayman." Some of his acts were so atrocious as to make the blood of citizens boil.

But the police seemed to be powerless. They made arrest after arrest, but the man did not fit the bill.

The climax in terrorism came when on the evening of March 31, 1910, in the Round Hill section of Springfield, Miss Martha B. Blackstone, a school teacher, was killed, and Miss Harriet Dow was shot and dangerously injured by the highwayman.

Miss Harriet Dow and Miss Lucy J. Dow are teachers. Miss Blackstone was visiting them. The young women were in the parlor when suddenly a masked man appeared and demanded money. Miss Blackstone attempted to get out of the room.

"Be quiet," commanded the masked man.

Then there was a shot. Miss Blackstone crumpled to the floor, dead. She had been shot through the heart. Miss Harriet Dow pushed a chair toward the man, thinking to ward him off.

"If you want to die—die now," he snapped and shot.

Miss Harriet Dow was shot in the head and dangerously wounded.

The news of the tragedy thoroughly aroused Springfield. The whole State was amazed at the crime. Rewards aggregating $6,000 were soon offered for the arrest of the criminal. Governor Draper took a hand in the matter with a $500 reward in connection with which he said:

Being of the opinion that the public good so requires, the Commonwealth will pay the sum of $500 to any person who, in consequence of this offer, apprehends and secures the person who murdered Miss Martha B. Blackstone at the home of Mrs. Sarah J. Dow on Round Hill, Springfield, on March 31.

This offer is made because in my opinion the person can not be arrested or secured in the common course of procedure.

To Be Continued Tomorrow.

Saving Two Hours Out Of Every Three

Did you ever time a team of horses to determine how long it takes them to cover a distance of one mile?

You will be surprised. And if they are hauling your goods you will be more than surprised.

We have held a watch many times on horses and on our Alco motor trucks, and we find it takes three times as long for a team of horses to go over a mile as it does one of our trucks.

An Alco truck, particularly the 3½ ton capacity model, makes 12 miles an hour—five minutes per mile—and with a full load aboard.

And the Alco truck not only does it for one mile but all day long, 24 hours in the day if necessary. A horse becomes less and less efficient each mile he covers. At the end of the day he tires rapidly.

But an Alco truck marches on as speedily at the end of the day as at the beginning. It never tires.

Mechanical or motor transportation should interest every horse owner in Boston, and an Alco truck is the quickest and most satisfying means of getting acquainted with it.

ELEVATOR KILLS A WATCHMAN

Peter McGuire, night watchman at the Oliver Ditson building on Tremont street, was killed by the elevator early today and was found by the day watchman, W. H. Hyde, when the latter came on duty at 7 o'clock. Hyde pulled in a fire alarm from the nearest box, and the chemical and steamer men which responded first sent one to the fire house for the ladder crew, with its heavier tools, to cut away the boarding and release the body.

McGuire lived at No. 63 Rockland street, Roxbury. Just how he was caught in the elevator is not known. From the position of the body, it is supposed that he was caught by the neck while standing on a platform on the ground floor. He probably was intending to take down a bundle of papers he had collected and had started the car up from the basement.

The day watchman found the body with the head jammed between the elevator and the wall.

MORSE MAKES DOCTOR MARVEL

FLORENCE, Sept. 12.—De Ciglioli, a celebrated physician, is surprised at the "cure" of Charles W. Morse of New York as indicated by the former banker's re-entry into business. The doctor said:

"Mr. Morse only consulted me once, shortly before his departure. His condition aroused my deepest interest because the case belonged to that class where the unexpected often happens. All our science cannot foretell, with persons in his condition, whether sudden collapse or the progressive degeneracy of the organs affected will terminate life.

"Anything like a permanent cure—on the short diagnosis I was able to make—was well nigh impossible, and to know him restored to health seems little short of miraculous. A peculiar difficulty arose from the fact that the heart and kidneys, the two chief sources of trouble, required distinct methods of treatment which interested prejudicially. Exercise in moderation, a cold sponge, vegetable diet with mineral water and an occasional massage were the only safe general rules to lay down. Drugs were useless.

"I am inclined to ascribe the recovery mainly to the patient's improved mental condition and indomitable will power. In all my experience I have rarely met any one more endowed with this quality, so far as my brief experience with the man enabled me to judge."

MAYOR WILL OPPOSE ADVANCE ON MILK

Mayor Fitzgerald intends to fight the proposed increase in the Boston milk price to ten cents a quart. Terming the advance to forty cents a can a bold disregard of the law, Mayor Fitzgerald announces he will call upon the county and United States District Attorneys to investigate for evidences of collusion or violation of the interstate law.

"It is high time that this process of squeezing the money out of the poor in the price of milk be stopped," the Mayor said.

RULES FOR THE CONTEST

This contest is open to every man, woman and child in New England, irrespective of age, except employes of the AMERICAN and their families.

All contestants must be legal residents of New England, and must be regularly enrolled on the enrollment ballot which appears daily in the AMERICAN.

The first ENROLLMENT BALLOT received before September 22 will count for 1,000 votes.

Vote coupons from the daily or Sunday AMERICAN will count in this contest. One vote coupon will appear in each issue of the AMERICAN (daily and Sunday) during the life of this contest. Each vote coupon in the daily AMERICAN will be good for 5 votes. Each vote coupon in the Sunday AMERICAN will be good for 25 votes. The one who receives the largest number of votes irrespective of districts, will be awarded the capital prize.

The ones who receive the largest number of votes in each district will be awarded the prizes as scheduled. In the event of total votes for any contestants who win being tied, similar prizes will be given to each winner so tied.

Each vote coupon will be good for two weeks from the date printed in the AMERICAN and valueless after two weeks.

The contest will begin September 22, 1912, and will end at 10 p. m. Friday, February 28, 1913.

A vote credit will be allowed for subscriptions turned in for the Sunday AMERICAN (subscriptions to the daily AMERICAN will not be received).

No Sunday subscriptions for less than six months' period will be received.

The AMERICAN will not be responsible for any subscriptions sent in through the mails in any form other than postoffice money order, express order or certified check, addressed to American Contest Dept., P. O. Box 3047, Boston, Mass. Cash sent through the mails will be sent at the risk of the person sending it.

You do not have to collect subscriptions in advance, but as an evidence of good faith each Sunday AMERICAN subscription turned in must be accompanied by a small cash GUARANTEE payment as follows:

LENGTH OF SUBSCRIPTION.	GUARANTEE REQUIRED.	VOTE CREDIT.
6 Months	25 Cents	1,500
12 Months	50 Cents	3,500
36 Months	100 Cents	7,500

Votes cannot be transferred from one contestant to another after receipt of same by the AMERICAN.

Vote coupons should be tied together in bundles of 100, keeping the 5-vote coupons separate from the 25-vote coupons. All contestants are requested to use rubber stamp containing contestant's name and address and district number. Only the top three or four coupons in each bundle of 100 need be stamped. Votes should be sent in one bundle, with contestant's name and address and district number and the total number of votes said to be contained in package marked on the outside of the wrapper.

The AMERICAN reserves the right to amend these rules and conditions from time to time, if it may seem necessary, in order to protect all contestants from any possible contingency which may arise.

The Contest Editor will decide all disputed questions carefully and in good faith, and his decisions shall be final and conclusive.

JACK JOHNSON'S WIFE A SUICIDE

ly, the belle of the aristocratic Hempstead colony and the wife until she divorced him, of Clarence F. Duryea, millionaire turfman and clubman.

No woman in this country, black or white, ever began life more favorable auspices to end in more misery, shame and utter loneliness.

Shunned by Relatives.

The last mark of degradation was barred into her soul when her colored husband's own black relatives and friends refused to associate with her.

Jack Johnson's mother objected to the white daughter-in-law living in the palatial home which the pugilist fitted up on Wabash avenue.

Mrs. Johnson was not good enough for her colored mother-in-law.

Mrs. Johnson's maiden name was Terry. Her father was a wealthy manufacturer of Hempstead, L. I. Her brother, Mrs. David Terry, now lives at No. 244 New York avenue, Brooklyn.

Miss Terry's married life was the round of comfort and pleasure natural to her station. In 1904 she was married to Charles Ingram, a brilliant young Englishman. Six years later she divorced Ingram, who was at that time in the Adirondacks for tuberculosis trouble.

A few months after the divorce Jack Johnson returned from Australia. This was in the fall of 1910.

Incredible as it may seem, this white woman, gently nurtured and reared, became infatuated with the black pugilist, who was heralded as the greatest boxer in the world.

No means was too undignified Mrs. Ingram contrived to meet Johnson. At last came the news of their elopement. It struck Pittsburgh was dashed upon a startled world.

Friends Ignored Her.

However conscious she was that her marriage would bring ostracism, the woman failed to realize at the time the depth and breadth of the social leprosy she had brought on herself.

Her old friends in the East "cut" her as a matter of course. Then came the second shock when Johnson's relatives refused to associate with her.

"She married Jack for his money, that white woman did," said the negroes of Johnson's circle.

All that remained to her—shunned by black and white—was her husband's society and attention.

According to the Chicago police this was taken from her. First came neglect, then sly, low cheers. Finally one night Mrs. Johnson is said to have received a beating that made her ill.

When Johnson's mother refused to have the white wife in the Wabash avenue home, Johnson fitted up apartments for himself and her on the third floor, over his own cafe. It was in this apartment that the woman's miserable existence ended while her black spouse was chatting gaily with black companions in his saloon on the ground floor.

Mrs. Johnson summoned her two colored maids into her bedroom.

"I want you to pray with me," she said. The maids knelt with her. She put her arms about their waists. They prayed for several minutes. Then Mrs. Johnson rose, put her hands to her face and sobbed "God pity a poor woman who is lonely."

When the maids were out of the room she shot herself in the head. She did not regain consciousness. Johnson, his mother and a few other of his relatives were at the hospital cot for a while before she died.

GIBSON HELD FOR WOMAN'S DEATH

Degraw had his doubts about the proper procedure, and he delayed action while he went to the Criminal Courts building to lay the matter before Assistant District Attorney Murphy. He was advised to go ahead and make the arrest, and the two detectives were sent along to aid him. Gibson had been waiting in his office an hour. He had an appointment with a client and was just about to leave to attend to this when the deputy and the detectives arrived.

Introduced Before Arrest.

Detective Flood, observing the formalities of the quiet way, asked to be introduced to Gibson, and after a reporter had done so the arrest was made.

Following is the text of the warrant which was served upon Gibson:

Sept. 11, 1912.

Ordered to bring before me forthwith Borton W. Gibson—murder in the first degree.

HERBERT B. ROWE,
Special County Judge.
Middletown, Orange County, N. Y.

It was arranged that the prisoner should be taken to Orange County for arraignment and pleading. The details of the trip called for a journey by train and an automobile.

Gibson was taken shortly after noon in an automobile from his office to the Grand Central station, where he boarded a train with Deputy Sheriff Degraw.

The accused attorney was stoically calm as he took up his work of dictating letters connected with his law business. He showed no traces of fear, and that he was confident that the case against him would not hold was shown by the fact that he had refused to take advantage of any technicality to prevent immediate arraignment.

If the warrant had been served in Rutherford extradition proceedings could have been demanded and secured by him. He came half-way, however, to meet the New York officers.

Despite the delay in serving the warrant, no opportunity was given for Gibson to escape. Detectives who had been on guard at his home for the last two nights accompanied him to New York. On his way here he said:

"My only information concerning this warrant is from the newspapers. I do not know from any other source that I am wanted in Orange County. I will go right along without making the slightest trouble. I am going to accompany the officials peacefully and I will not make the slightest effort to obstruct in any way the operations of the courts or of the officers of the law."

But you might remain in New Jersey and make them extradite you," was suggested.

Daughter Kisses Father.

Gibson replied:

That is just exactly what I am not going to do. I will not make any delay and I will not offer any excuses. There is but one thing for me to do, and that is to go with the officer."

His little daughter Marion kissed her father good by as he left his home. "Come back early, papa," was her parting admonition. Besides the detectives with Gibson, he was accompanied by a full company of reporters and photographers, the latter snapping their shutters with metallic monotony as the procession to the station progressed. The townspeople gave evidence of unusual interest in the case. Some of them feared the lawyer. Others retained a kindly feeling for him and some of them gave him assurances of their confidence in his ultimate vindication.

On his way to New York Gibson asked a reporter if it could be arranged for him to go to Middletown and be arrested there. Detective Alphonse P. Block interposed and said that this matter was up to Deputy Sheriff Degraw and that he would have to decide.

When the party arrived at the Hudson terminal in New York there was a large crowd waiting to watch proceedings, and fully 200 persons followed Gibson until he reached the building in which his office is located. They pushed, jostled and annoyed him until he appealed for protection.

"I am an American citizen," he said, "and I have some rights. I have tried to do all I could to make this matter easy for the officials and I demand protection. I cannot stand this mob, and I must not be assaulted."

At the street crossings on the way to his Liberty street office Gibson had to be protected by traffic policemen who held back the mob as best they could.

GILMORE NOT GUILTY OF MURDER CHARGE

Walter Gilmore, who was charged with the murder of Bertram Campbell on the steamer Iaparra of the Boston Fruit Company on August 17, was found not guilty by a jury in the Superior Criminal Court this morning. Gilmore and Campbell were engaged in an ending fight. Arrangements which resulted in one having a razor and the other a knife. Both men were badly cut.

Miss Harris Quits Father as Secretary to Beat $1,500 Wage

Miss Elizabeth C. Harris, daughter of Congressman Robert O. Harris of the Seventh Massachusetts District, has given up her $1,500 position as her father's secretary to enter business in Washington dispatches today from the Capital announce.

Miss Harris, who is one of the few young women ever to hold such a position, thinks she can make more than thirty dollars a week in some other line of work, but she is making a secret of just what enterprise she will embark upon. It may be she will have a partner, but as to that she is also mum. Miss Harris has been using the $1,500 as pocket money.

She is an accomplished young woman and has been as popular in Washington as she was in Brockton before going to the Capital.

Congressman Harris "deserted" by his daughter, has chosen Edwin C. McAdams a Brockton newspaper man, for his secretary.

ACCUSED OF THEFT OF $1,580 IN GLOVES

William L. Webb, thirty years old, of Jenkins street, was arraigned in the South Boston District Court today on the charge of stealing a case of gloves valued at $1,580 from the N. N. H. & H. Railroad. His case was continued until tomorrow and Judge Fallon held him in $1,000 bail. Webb is a teamster and it is alleged that he secured the case of gloves through a mistake on the part of a clerk.

RECEIVERS FOR UNITED MOTORS

NEW YORK, Sept. 12—Judge Hough in United States District Court has appointed W. E. S. Strong and Robert H. Walker receivers for the United States Motor Company, a company capitalized at $42,000,000.

The collapse of this project forms one of the worst scandals in Wall Street finances. Some of the most influential banking houses of the United States were behind the formation of the combination in 1910 and the public was completely misled concerning its stability.

George W. Perkins was reputed to be one of the engineers of the amalgamation, while Morgan institutions have figured prominently in its financing.

Last year the preferred stock sold above $50 a share, whereas yesterday it collapsed to about $8. The common stock last year went to $42 a share, it was quoted at only $1 bid yesterday afternoon. This equals the shameful record of the McCrum Howell bicycle receivership.

The United States Motors scandal is infinitely worse than the McCrum-Howell in that the banking interests identified with it were far more prominent and the amount of money sunk in much greater. Last Fall an issue of $45,000,000 bonds was sold at ninety-two, notwithstanding that the condition of the company as the insiders ought to have known, was thoroughly unsound. Even then, however, investors fought shy of the offering and the underwriters' syndicate, headed by Eugene Meyer, Jr. & Co., was left with a large part of the bonds on their hands. The details of such under such circumstances is now looked upon as nothing short of outrageous.

LAST SEASON'S FALL SUITS

S. H. Harrison Company are selling the surplus of last winter's wholesale stock. Suits from $18.00 to $30.00. Choice of stock $9.75. S. H. Harrison Co., 662-672 Washington St., cor. Beach.

PROBLEM FOR COACH
HOBBS AT AMHERST

HOBBS TO COACH AMHERST SQUAD

Pre-season football practice was begun at Amherst College with a squad of eighteen men. As many more are expected to report on Pratt field within the next three days and regular training will start on Monday.

For the present the practice will be carried on under the direction of M. Mari n Roberts, who coached the freshmen team last year, and Captain Bart Connolly.

Henry H. Hobbs, the former Dartmouth and Yale star, who turned out a successful team for Amherst in 1910, has been again secured as regular coach and will be up to take charge of the work by the middle of next week.

The practice for the next few days will be of the lightest sort, with no tackling or hard play until the men are in better condition.

Amherst's prospects for a good team seem to be fairly promising, despite the fact that seven men were lost from last year's eleven by graduation and several more of the regular squad will not return to college.

Although much of the material at hand is green, there should be no lack of good men for the line.

Coach Hobbs' worst problem will be in the backfield, where Miles, Brodie and Pitts will be missed, but with two such experienced backs as Connolly and Mc Clay to begin with, he should be able to develop a capable set for that department.

Captain Connolly, who was out of the game for the latter part of last season with a broken ankle, is in fine shape again and looks bigger and heavier than ever.

Much is looked for from last year's freshman backfield, who though rather light, were a clever, speedy aggregation and should come to the front on the varsity this Fall. The rest of the available timber are Chamberlain, Goetter, Proudfoot, Kimball, Morrow and R. H. Browne.

RILEY'S COLUMN

CRITICAL persons who object to giving Joe Wood his fifteenth straight victory because he did not finish nine innings Tuesday ought to be jolted with the fact that "Rube" Marquard made his nineteen straight and Walter Johnson his sixteen straight and Cheshire his fourteen straight, and every other world-beater his umpty-umpth straight the same way.

* * *

IF you critics will require "Rube" Marquard to take out of his record those victories" in which he pitched a couple of innings or three-abouts, and do likewise with Walter Johnson, we, as Joe Wood's champion, agree to induce Joe to subtract from HIS record the two games in which he withdrew before the contest was ended and in each of which cases his team was in the lead at the time.

* * *

THE fact is that Wood has gone "through the string" oftener than any other pitcher in either league this year and that his wins have been "clean cut" except on the two occasions mentioned.

* * *

IF we had our way, we would not credit any pitcher with a victory unless he pitched a complete game. But, in that case, all of the records ever made would be so badly shattered as to make the greatest pitcher's work look like, well like what the "rookie" does after he is drafted. And instead of having to win another game to tie Johnson's American League record and four more to tie Marquard's world's record, Wood would have both marks beaten.

* * *

WHILE it does seem questionable to credit a pitcher with a win when he is "knocked out of the box" it is well to consider what being "knocked out of the box" consists of. In Wood's case Tuesday, it meant that with the score reduced to the small figure of 5 to 3 in his own favor, with two "on" and none out, Wood was withdrawn from the game in the ninth inning. Of the succeeding pitcher, Hall, one of those two "on" scored. If both men left on base by Wood had scored, the game would have been tied—not lost. In the olden days, when those alleged champions used to make such wonderful records, pitchers were not usually "knocked out of the box" as we remember it, unless forced to retire after were scored off them in an inning.

* * *

SINCE Wood has pitched more complete games than either Johnson or Marquard, it is not unfair to offset those two "knock outs" with some other facts. Wood has gone to the rescue in relief five times this season, in none of which cases was he responsible for the pitching with having done anything at all and in most of which cases, he pulled what looked like a losing game out of the fire. Besides these relief expeditions he has won thirty-one games and lost only

MOTOR BOAT RACE ORDERS

ENTRY BLANK
BOSTON AMERICAN MOTOR BOAT RACE.

Name of Boat.. .....
Owner's Name .....
Owner's Address.....
Class .....

Entries for the big motor boat speed events, which takes place next Saturday afternoon on the Charles River Basin, under the direction of the Boston AMERICAN, can be made up to tomorrow (Friday) night with the Motor Boat Editor of the AMERICAN and on Saturday up to 2 p. m., one-half hour before the races start, with the judges, who will accept entries at the finishing line, if anyone care to enter.

The first prizes are silver coffee sets on mahogany trays.

The attention of competitors is called to the convenient arrangements for boats to go through the bridges.

The tide is low on the day of the carnival at 7.23 a. m. Boats can go through the railroad draws for two hours after this. For boats carrying masts or high cabins, the draws will have to be opened after nine o'clock. Some boats can go through the piling at any tide. It will be low tide at 7.48 p. m. and boats can go under the draws then.

The Boston & Maine officials have agreed to open the draws on Saturday for the convenience of boats proceeding to the Basin.

Boats will be permitted to collect at the draw at 12 a. m. and at a suitable moment the draw will be opened and all rushed through. The last time the draw will be opened will be shortly after 1 p. m. This will be in time for the race.

Flags can be secured from the racing committee or will be mailed to entrants before the race. Each flag has two grommets and must be fastened to the pole or mast.

The course will be plainly marked by flags. All boats racing must leave the course marks to port and must carry the numbered flag so that it shows to starboard, for the judges will be located to starboard.

Program of the Races.

The gun that signals for preparation for the contests will be fired promptly at 2 30 o'clock. Following are the classes and schedule time for starting.

1—Racers unlimited, handicap according to American Power Boat Association rules, distance ten miles. Start 2.35

2—Open boats over twenty feet, stated speed handicap, distance five miles. Start 2.40

3—Open boats under twenty feet, stated speed handicap, distance five miles. Start 2.45.

4—Cabin cruisers thirty to forty feet, stated speed handicap, distance five miles. Start 2.50

5—Cabin cruisers under thirty feet stated speed handicap, distance five miles. Start 2.55

6—Hydroplanes, handicap according to American Power Boat Association rules, distance five miles. Start 3.00

7—T Wharf dories, boat for boat Entrance free to all. Dories rowed or run by fishermen. Distance five miles Start 3.05

8—Free for-all, open to any boat in New England, no handicap, distance fifteen miles. Preparatory gun, 3.45; start, 3.50

Contestants must be careful to make a measurement of the speed of their boats, as provided in the following rules for the contest.

Rules for Contests.

Races 1 and 6 will be handicapped under the American Power Boat Association rules. Races 7 and 8 are free for all.

Owners of boats starting in other classes must make statement of speed of their boats in statute or nautical miles per hour. To ascertain this, run your boat both ways over a fairly long course, the exact length of which may be determined from the chart, or from measurements, and from this you may compute your speed.

This speed will be used by the race committee in assigning the handicap if the actual speed of your boat is found to materially exceed the speed given, the committee will tax the boat accordingly, so be careful to ascertain your speed correctly.

Send your entry in at once. Address them to the Motor Boat Editor, Boston AMERICAN.

WATCH FOR VOTE LIST ON SUNDAY

Watch for the new vote standing in next Sunday's AMERICAN, candidates!

The time is growing short and candidates should use every minute of the spare time in piling up their vote total. Do not hold back your votes, but rush them into the Contest Editor.

Each contestant will need every vote he can possibly lay his hands on, between now and September 28, when the last vote coupon will appear

Sunday's vote standing will be complete up to yesterday at 11 a. m., and will contain a record of the standing of all candidates who had to their credit at that time 5,000 votes or over

Be step lively, fans, and don't let the work of vote-gathering ease up for one minute from now until the finish

The last vote coupon will appear on Sunday, September 28. On and after Wednesday, September 18, all votes will be valueless after Wednesday, October 2. This gives all candidates just three days after the last coupon is printed in which to collect and turn in all votes. This includes mail matter, which must also be in not later than Wednesday, October 2.

RED SOX RULE 7-5 FAVORITES IN BIG WORLD SERIES GAMES

That the Boston Red Sox will win the world's series from the New York Giants is the opinion which seems to be growing steadily among the fans at large as well as among the newspaper critics.

This belief is by no means strongest among American League adherents, but is entertained even more strongly in New York, apparently than in either Cleveland and Detroit, which do not have National League clubs.

Joe Wood's present victory for Boston is a prearranged duel with Walter Johnson of the Washington speed marvel, and the assistant race the Red Sox have maintained and scoring which once showing a total of a run or are the principal factors in the sudden and well-defined pessimism creeping over the Giants' rooters in the big city.

Since Wood's triumph the Giants were on the short end in the betting by about 10 to 9 with little money in sight on either side. In the past three or four days the odds have gone above even money and the prevailing odds just now are 7 to 5.

THE BOSTON AMERICAN'S DAILY DOUBLE

Little Bobbie's Pa

By WILLIAM F. KIRK

I HAVE just rote a song, wife, sed Pa, that I think you wud like to hear.

I wud like to hear it all rite if you will let Bobbie sing it, sed Ma. I am afrade that you wuddent be abel to do so fine a song justice.

Well, sed Pa, then Bobbie can sing it. I knew that he wanted to sing it hareself, but what Ma sed about it being a fine song made him feal kind of good after all. So Pa handed me the song, & I sang it the best I cod for the kind of a song it was. This was the naim of the song.

NIX, NIX, Nix on Polyticks.

The drawing room was crowded in a city far away,
It was a politishun's boam, so briljunt and so gay.
His wife was cooking dinnar wen a guest came calm through the door
& sed Do you think William Taft will get just one term moar?
She hit him with a turnip on his bald and shiny pate
& sumthing like the following was the word that she did state.

Chorus

NIX, NIX, Nix on Polyticks,
I'm tired of Teddy Roosevelt & his litel Bull Moose tricks
I wuddent care if Taft grew Daft & Wilson crossed the Styx.
NIX, NIX, Nix on Polyticks'

Well, sed Pa, what do you think of that for a song?

It dident seem to impress me favor'bly, sed Ma. It is not true, not true to life & not true to wimmen, sed Ma. Did you ever see me, for instens, throwing a turnip at a man's bald hed? In the first place I never cooked a turnip & wuddent have one in my hand, & in the second place I cuddent throw strate enuff to hit anybody in the hed unless I aimed at his feet.

Pa got kind of mad then. Wife, deer, sed Pa, is thare anything that I ever did that you liked? I was almost sure that this one time you wud like this song I spent a lot of time on it. I thought the chorus was kind of catchy.

You poor old boy, sed Ma. I didest think that you was going to cry so hard, or anyling like that. If it will make you feel any better to tell you that I think the song is good, I will say that the song is good. I only thought that you wanted my real opinyun, Ma sed.

You know as well as I do that polyticks is everything nite now & that it is always a important part of American life. Why doant you rite a song about the moonlite on the lake, or sumthing of that kind. Everybody knows that there is a lake & a nite that the moon is out.

I guess you better lay off on song-writing, sed Ma, & try sumthing else. I was reeding the other day about a man that got ten thousand dollars for curing a horse that beelonged to a rich man. Why doant you try beeing a veterinary surgeon instead of a poet

Beeing a what? sed Pa

Oh, anything, sed Ma. Try beeing a shipping clerk. But doant be a song writer.

So then Pa tore up his song as easy as he used to tear up Tremont street.

Brent Good

By Margaret Hubbard Ayer

WHEN she was a very little girl, and her mother gave dinner parties, just before dinner was announced it was found that all the men guests, led by her father, had disappeared from the drawing room. They had gone upstairs and gathered about the crib of the future coquette, who coursered bitterly as any of the young ladies will, flirted with them outrageously at the age of three, ordered them about, and treated these men who were to be the fathers of her future beaux as if they were little boys, made only to do her bidding

"That child is a born coquette!" said her mother, and some of the girls whose beaux had left them to go to the nursery sighed, envying the baby who already showed the power she had over the other sex.

The coquette who is born to rule by virtue of charm, fascination and beauty is an irresistible person. The coquette who is made by artifice, whose attractions are forced and whose high spirits are artificial is a nuisance, and she generally ends by being a disgrace to her kind

The fascinating women who have ruled the hearts of men and have been called coquettes for want of a better name, have generally been able to back up their title for supremacy with other attributes besides a pretty face and charming manner

The women who were famous in the eighteenth century for their wit and attraction, were extremely clever and learned. These pretty young women, with their curled and powdered hair, their brocaded frocks and paniers, went through a pretty severe schooling before they were turned out as belles to rule society

They were taught Latin and mathematics, besides their own language; they had to be able to understand and criticise poetry, and all the arts and manners in those days were a study in which no well bred girl could fail.

Besides that they must dance more gracefully than the women on the stage, they had to know something of music and conversation, which was then a high art, was the medium through which they showed off their learning, their sharp wit and intellect.

Indeed, it wasn't easy to be a belle in those days of paint and powder. It is much simpler in our time, when a pretty face and pleasant manners make up for all deficiencies of mind and education

Do You Know That—

Occasionally one reads that, when human bodies are thought to be in rivers and cannot be found, "a loaf of bread has been floated down the stream." But very few people have the least idea what connection there is between bread and the finding of bodies. When the river has been dragged without result, a loaf of bread is cut in two, a place hollowed out in the middle, and a quantity of quicksilver inserted. The two halves of the loaf are then fastened together again, and the bread is thrown into the water in the place where the body is supposed to be. Without fail, it is declared, the loaf floats along until it reaches the vicinity of the body, and then revolves quickly, hovering over the spot.

LARRY could not get on very well with the people at home in England, so he enlisted, and, after a time, went to India

After some years he returned to his native village. How surprised the old folks would be! He walked along the village street to his smart-looking uniform, his heart beating fast as he neared the old home. Opening the gate, he stepped up the gravel path. Just then a ferocious dog rushed out and grabbed the soldier's leg. Shaking the dog off, he speedily regained the road, and was standing on the other side of the fence when his old father came out.

"Ah, my son," said the old man, "like the prodigal, you have returned."

"Yes," growled the soldier; "but it's your confounded dog that's stopped the fatted calf!"

Effective Home Remedy for Tuberculosis

It is a serious matter when the lungs are affected. A trip away or to a sanatorium is expensive, and involves separation from home. Some are benefited, but none can safely return. Eckman's Alterative is effective—no leaving home necessary. An example:

231 S. Atlantic Ave., Haddonfield, N. J.

"Gentlemen: In the Fall of 1903 I contracted a very severe cold, which settled on my lungs, and my physician told me I must go to California immediately. At this time I was advised to take Eckman's Alterative. I stayed at home and commenced taking it the last week in October. I began to improve, and the first week in January, 1904, I resumed my regular occupation, being fully restored to health. It is now five years since my cure was effected, and I consider Eckman's Alterative a wonderful remedy."

(Signed) W. M. PATTM

Eckman's Alterative is effective in Bronchitis, Asthma, Hay Fever, Throat and Lung Troubles, and in upbuilding the system. Does not contain poisons, opiates or habit forming drugs. Hunting a Husband

NO. 14—THE WIDOW RETURNS HOME IN DR. HAYNES' CAR AND LEARNS SOMETHING OF HIS PERSONALITY

By Virginia Terhune Van de Water

AS Dr. Haynes, the attractive widow passed at his side, drove his car toward the railroad station at Pleasanton, they met a stream of commuters. Among them was Henry Blanchard. He started with pleased surprise at sight of Beatrice and waved his hat gayly. The woman felt her cheeks flush as she bowed in return

"That's a funny old chap!" laughed the doctor as they sped across the tracks at the crossing

"He's a very good friend of mine," said Beatrice, stiffly

"Surely," agreed the physician, "but even you must admit that he is old and funny!"

To which comment the widow made no reply.

The remainder of the drive home was uneventful. The pleasure of the motion aroused Beatrice to chat brightly, and, although the doctor divided his attention between the machine and herself, she noted that she received a larger share of his notice than had been hers during the morning.

The pair had exchanged no speech for ten minutes when the doctor brought his car to a stop before his companion's home. Still silently, he helped her to alight, and she, spurred to a final effort to arouse him, smiled frankly up into his face and urged him to "come in for a few moments."

The doctor looked at his watch before replying, then shook his head decidedly

A Tactful Reply

"Can't do it," he said. "I'm sorry, for I'd like to see the little girl. But these are my office hours, and I must go."

But the widow detained him for a moment as she held out her hand in bidding him good-bye.

"I thank you a thousand times, Dr. Haynes," she said sweetly, "for a lovely day. I have enjoyed it ever so much and the pleasure is all due to you."

"And I've enjoyed it too," responded the physician absently, his eyes fixed on his automobile. "I so seldom get a chance to try out my machine on a country road that I was glad to do so today."

With which tactful remark he dropped her hand, turned quickly and "cranked up" his car, and, lifting his hat, sprang into the automobile and drove away without so much as a glance in her direction.

"Pig!" was Beatrice's vindictive sotto voice exclamation as she went into the house.

The children received her joyfully and she forgot for the time her chagrin in the gratification of the mother love that was perhaps the only genuine affection she had ever felt. She answered patiently the multitude of childish questions regarding the new Summer home, and told of her intention of taking the Hale cows there before the next week had passed

"Did Dr. Haynes like the place?" asked Jean

"Very much, dear," answered the mother "He says you will get well fast in that lovely spot, and just as soon as you are stronger we'll go."

"Are there nice people there, mother?" queried Jack, dubiously.

"Yes, indeed," declared Beatrice. "There are Mr. and Mrs. Robbins, and—and—Mr. Blanchard's going to be there most of the Summer."

"Umph!" grunted Jack, discontentedly "I don't like him. He's just like an old goat, 'cept now he's cut off his whiskers."

For the second time that afternoon Beatrice found herself constrained to stand up for her potential fiance.

"Do you like him very much, mother?" queried Jack with a child's brutal frankness.

"Very much," replied Beatrice firmly.

"All right, then," said the boy resignedly. "But, honest, mother, he did used to look just like an old billy goat, and his whiskers stepped up and down when he talked, so!"

An Annoying Boy

"Jack!" warned the mother, angrily, and the boy, after one look at her stern face, said quickly, "Yes'm," and subsided into silence. But the lad's attitude annoyed his mother more than she would have been willing to admit. She loved her little son as a mother only loves her manchild, and it gave her a sensation of uneasy compunction to think that she was considering as a husband for herself and a stepfather for her children, a man for whom her boy had only contempt

Jean had a restless night, and the mother found her feverish when morning came. Her heart sank at the recurrence of the child's indisposition, and after breakfast she telephoned the doctor. On hearing of Jean's condition he promised to call, but reassured Beatrice by the assertion that he had expected a recurrence of the malaria trouble, and that as yet it was nothing that need cause alarm. He would be in to see the child later in the morning.

He came about noon time. Beatrice had looked forward to his arrival as to an opportunity for a quiet chat with him. But he was brusque, businesslike and evidently hurried. Yet he was, as ever, gentle with the sick child. In the hall, after having left the small patient a cheery good-bye and promising her that she would be better again soon, he turned suddenly to Beatrice.

Strict Orders

"Mrs. Minor," he said abruptly, "when do you mean to go to Pleasanton?"

"I've been thinking," she replied, "of leaving next Thursday or Friday."

"Why not before then?" he demanded

"Why—I haven't thought"—began the widow, hesitatingly, but he interrupted her.

"Have you anything to do which could not be done in a couple of days if absolutely necessary?"

"Well, no, not exactly," acknowledged Beatrice. "But"——

"Then," he said curtly, "make your arrangements to get off by Monday as the latest'

"I have some shopping to do," said the widow more decidedly. "Unless it is imperative"——

"It is!" broke in the physician. "While your child is not seriously ill, the fever is sapping her vitality. Every extra hour you stay in town you are depriving her of fresh country air. You told me just now that it would be possible for you to go soon. Then go soon. Good day!"

"I believe he's a brute!" declared Beatrice to her vexed self as the door slammed behind him. Yet she was conscious that in her heart lurked a secret admiration for his strength and power.

Bald Facts

"Whom did she marry?"

"My impression is that it was a coat-of-arms and a bad case of gout."

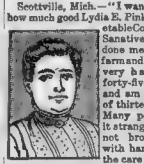
Scottville, Mich.—"I want to tell you how much good Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Sanative Wash have done me. I live on a farm and have worked very hard. I am forty-five years old, and am the mother of thirteen children. Many people think it strange that I am not broken down with hard work and the care of my family, but I tell them of my good friend, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and that alone will be no backache and bearing down pains for them if they will take it as I have. I am scarcely ever without it in the house.



"I will say also that I think there is no better medicine to be found for young girls. My eldest daughter has taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for painful periods and irregularity, and it has helped her.

"I am always ready and willing to speak a good word for Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I tell every one I meet that I owe my health and happiness to your wonderful medicine." —Mrs. J. G. JOHNSON, Scottville, Mich., R.F.D. 3.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from native roots and herbs, contains no narcotics or harmful drugs, and today holds the record of being the most successful remedy for woman's ills known.

The Smiles of Lillie

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

"FAIR Lillie's smiles were full of wiles,
And won my heart completely.
I lazied in the sunshine
Of her friendship given sweetly.
But when she found 'twas time I had
To spend, instead of money,
The contents of my cup of joy
Were changed to gall from honey.
Though once my wit had made a hit
And roused her girlish glee,
Her mirth refused to be enthused,
She laughed not with, but at me."

"THOMAS F." the author of this unhappy little poem, adds a postscript in which he suggests that his and experience has undoubtedly been the experience of other poor but honest chaps. Also that "though capable of sitting up alone with his dead," he wishes for the sake of other men that this little "obituary to his love for Lillies" be published.

The request of poor Thomas is granted in the hope that its publication will do more than warn other men against Lillies; That it may make him realise when he sees the poem in black and white what a very poor poet he is.

With this realization may come the mere important one: That he has been wasting his time.

He wasted valuable time in making love when he had no financial resources; he wasted more time in writing a poem about it.

Now that he has had the experience of having "lazied in the sunshine of her friendship," and knows the bitterness of being laughed at, instead of with, he should put the incident out of mind and go to work.

He may resent this, and claim he is working now. I have his own poem to prove that he isn't, for "when she found 'twas time I had to spend, instead of money," tells a tale of idleness; of lovemaking when one should be at work, of laxzing in the sunshine of a girl's friendship when one should be working in the sunshine sent from above.

No wonder she laughed at, instead of with him. Every girl should laugh at the man who doesn't make effort to turn his time into cash. And the girl should have enough of contempt in it to waken the manhood in him, and send him hustling.

He says he is capable of sitting up alone with his own dead. If he can do that all through life he will show a spirit of courage, of unselfishness, and of self-reliance that few men display. The world is full of women who "sit up alone with their own dead" and make no moan, and no one knows it, but it is the natural tendency of a man to call attention to his woe and demand that the world pause while it gazes with solemn eyes at his sorrow.

Thomas is letting a little incident make him morbid. He has no dead to sit up with beyond the dead that exist in such moments of poetic frenzy as he is experiencing. But he has the living to deal with, and life to face.

And that life will never amount to much if he is content with having more time to spend than money, and sitting around writing poor poetry about it.

Fall Coats in Fetching Designs

The new Fall coats and wraps are carried out in long, graceful lines.

This model is of black satin and silk muslin. A bias of satin trims the lower part and goes up in front in two large bands. Both sides are veiled by silk muslin, draped, and showing a panel of white linen cloth embroidered in blue silk.

"NO, said Doris, bending over her desk till her curls fell in a tangle over her white cheeks. "I do not like to," she protested at last, with an attempt at naivette which seemed real enough to him.

"Well, leave out the fretful if you must, but keep in the exacting. I have been exacting, you know."

Silence, broken only by the scratching of the stubborn, ill-directed pen.

"It's done," she whispered. She said, afterward, that it was like writing with a ghost looking over one's shoulder.

"Then add, Mr. Brotherson has had a slight attack of fever, but he is getting well fast, and will soon——Do I run on too quickly?"

"No, no, I can follow."

"But not without losing breath; eh, Doris?"

As he laughed, she smiled. There was a heroism in that smile. Gawaid Brotherson, of which you know nothing.

"You might speak a little more slowly," she admitted.

Quietly he repeated the last phrase.

"But he is getting well fast and will soon be ready to take up the management of the Works which was given him just before he was taken ill. That will show her that I am working up," he brightly remarked as Doris carefully penned the last word. "If myself you need say nothing more, unless"—he paused, and his face took on a wistful look which Doris dared not meet; "unless—but no, no, she must think it has been only a passing indigestion. If she knew I had been really ill, she would suffer, and perhaps get improductive or suffer and not dare to act at all, which might be sadder for her still. Write a good deal about yourself, so that she will see that you are not worried and that all is well with us here. Cannot you do that without assistance? Surely you can tell her about that last piece of embroidery you showed me. She will be glad to hear—why, Doris!"

A Breakdown

"Oh, Mr. Brotherson," the poor child burst out, "you must let me cry! I'm so glad to see you better and interested in all sort of things. These are tears of grief. Indeed I'm forgetting what the doctor told me. You are growing excited, and I was to see that you were calm. Always calm. I will take my desk away, I will write the rest in the other room, while you look at the magazines."

"But bring your letter back to me to seal. I want to see it in its envelope. Oh, Doris, you are a good little girl!"

She shook her head and hastened to hide herself from him in the other room; and it was a long time before she came back with the letter folded and in its envelope. When she did her face was composed and her manner natural. She had quite made up her mind what her duty was and how she was going to perform it.

"Here is the letter," said she, laying it in his outstretched hand. Then she turned her back. She knew, with a woman's unerring instinct, why he wished to have it before it went. She felt the kiss he folded away in it in every fibre of her aroused and sympathetic heart, but the hardest part of the ordeal was over and her eyes beamed softly when she turned again to take it from his hand and affix the stamp.

"You will mail it yourself?" he asked. "I should like to have you put it into the box with your own hand."

"I will put it in tonight, after supper," she promised him.

His smile of contentment assured her that this trial of her courage and self-control was not without one blessed result. He would rest for several days in the pleasure of what he had done or thought he had done. She gave not cringe before that image of Dread for two, three days at least. Meanwhile he would grow strong in body, and she, perhaps, in spirit. Only one precaution she must take. No hint of Mr. Challoner's presence in town must reach him. He must be guarded from a knowledge of that fact as certainly as from the more serious one which lay behind it.

I Hope Never to See That Man

THAT this would be a difficult thing to do, Doris was soon to realize.

Mr. Challoner continued to pass the house twice a day and the time finally came when he ventured up the walk.

Doris saw him at the window and saw him coming. She slipped softly out and intercepted him before he had stepped upon the porch. She had caught up her hat and she passed through the hall and was fitting it to her head as he looked up and saw her.

"Miss Scott?" he asked.

"Yes, Mr. Challoner."

"You know me?" he went on, one foot on the step and one still on the walk.

Before replying she closed the door behind her. Then, as she noted his surprise, she carefully explained:

"Mr. Brotherson, our boarder, is just recovering from typhoid. He is still weak and acutely susceptible in the least noise. I was afraid that our voices might disturb him. Do you mind walking a little way up the road? That is, if your visit was intended for me."

Her flush, the beauty which must have struck even him, but more than all else her youth, seemed a reconcile him to this unconventional request. Bowing, he took his foot from the step, saying, as she joined him:

"Yes, you are the one I wanted to see; that is, today. Later I hope to have the privilege of a conversation with Mr. Brotherson."

She gave him one quick look, trembling so that he offered her his arm with a fatherly air.

"I see that you understand my errand here," he proceeded, with a grave smile, meant as she saw for her encouragement. "I am glad, because we can go at once to the point. Miss Scott," he continued in a voice from which he no longer strove to keep back the evidences of deep feeling, "I have the strongest interest in your patient for no one man can have in another, where there is no personal acquaintanceship. You who have every reason to understand my reasons for this will accept the statement, I hope, as frankly as it is made."

A Question

She nodded. Her eyes were full of tears, but she did not hesitate to raise them. She had the greatest desire to see the face of the man who could speak like this today, and yet of whose pride and sense of superiority his daughter had stood in such awe that she had laid a seal upon the impulses of her heart and imposed such tasks and weary wailing upon her lover. Doris forgot, in dwelling his softened radiance and tender almost wistful, expression, the changes which can be made by great grief and only wondered why her sweet benefactress had not taken him into confidence and thus, possibly, averted the doom which Doris felt had in some way grown out of this secrecy.

"Why should she have feared the disapproval of this man?" she inwardly queried, as she cast him a confiding look which pleased him greatly, as his one now showed.

"When I lost my daughter, I lost everything," he declared, as they walked slowly up the road. "Nothing excites my interest, save that which once excited hers. I am told that the deepest interest of her life my here. I am also told that it was an interest quite worthy of her. I expect to find it so. I hope with all my heart to find it so, and that is why I have come to this town and expect to linger till Mr. Brotherson has recovered sufficiently to see me. I hope that this will be agreeable to him. I hope that I am not procuring too much in cherishing these expectations."

Doris paused her candid eyes upon him.

"I cannot tell; I do not know," said she. "Nobody knows, not even the doctor, what effect the news we so dread to give him will have upon Mr. Brotherson. You will have to wait—we all shall have to wait the result of that revelation. It cannot be kept from him much longer. When I reflect I shall shrink from his first look, in the fear of seeing in letter this dreadful knowledge. Yet I have a faithful woman there to keep everyone out of the room."

"You have had much to carry for one so young," was Mr. Challoner's sympathetic remark. "You must let me help you when that awful moment comes. I am at the hotel and shall stay there till Mr. Brotherson is pronounced quite well. I have no other duty now in life but to sustain him through his trouble, and then, with what aid he can give, search out and find the cause of my daughter's death, which I will never admit without the fullest proof to have been one of suicide."

Doris trembled.

"It was not suicide," she declared, vehemently. "I have always felt sure that it was not; but today I know."

Her hand fell clenched on her breast and her eyes gleamed strangely. Mr. Challoner was himself greatly startled. What had happened—what could have happened since yesterday that she should emphasize that now?

"I've not told any one," she went on, as he stopped short in the road in his anxiety to understand her. "But I will tell you. Only, not here, not with all those people driving past; most of whom know me. Come to the house later—this evening, after Mr. Brotherson's room is closed for the night. I have a little sitting room on the other side of the hall where we can talk without being heard. Would you object to doing that? Am I asking too much of you?"

"No, not at all," he assured her. "Expect me at 8. Will that be too early?"

"No, no. Oh, how those people stared! Let us hasten back or they may connect your name with what we want to keep secret."

He smiled at her fears, but gave in to her humor; he would see her soon again and possibly learn something which would amply repay him, both for his trouble and his patience.

A Change

But when evening came and she turned to face him in that little sitting room where he had quietly followed her he was conscious of a change in her manner which forbade these high hopes. The gleam was gone from her eyes; the tremulous eagerness from her mobile and sensitive mouth. She had been thinking in the hours which had passed, and had lost the confidence of that one impetuous moment. She regretted her betrayal of excitement and she hesitated painfully before she spoke.

"I don't know what you will think of me," she ventured at last, motioning to a chair, but not sitting herself. "You have had time to think over what I said and probably expect something real—something you could tell people. But it isn't like that. It's a feeling—a belief. I'm so sure——"

"Sure of what, Miss Scott?"

YOUR HAIR IS FLUFFY, BEAUTIFUL AND LUSTROUS IN A FEW MOMENTS

Girls! Get a 25-cent bottle of "Danderine" and try this. Also stops falling hair; destroys dandruff.

Your hair becomes light, wavy, fluffy, abundant and appears as soft, lustrous and beautiful as a young girl's after a "Danderine hair cleanse." Just try this—moisten a cloth with a little Danderine and carefully draw it through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. This will cleanse the hair of dust, dirt and excessive oil and in just a few minutes you have doubled the beauty of your hair.

Besides beautifying the hair at once, Danderine dissolves every particle of dandruff; cleanses, purifies and invigorates the scalp, forever stopping itching and falling hair.

But what will please you most will be after a few weeks' use when you will actually see new hair—fine and downy at first—yes—but really new hair growing all over the scalp. If you care for pretty, soft hair and lots of it surely get a 25 cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any druggist or toilet counter, and just try it.

Household Hints

Always lower the temperature of the oven somewhat fifteen or twenty minutes after a roast has been placed in it. This will insure that the juices be retained.

To ease a tight shoe wring out a cloth in very hot water and place it over the spot where the shoe pinches. Repeat this as soon as the cloth becomes cold, and after two or three applications the leather will have become stretched to the foot through the moist heat from the damp cloth.

Combs should not be washed, for the water is apt to spoil the teeth. An old and fairly stiff nailbrush will be found very useful for cleaning them. Work the bristles well in and out between the teeth until all the dirt and fluff are removed and then wipe the comb on a damp cloth.

WILL TONE UP THE STOMACH AND STRENGTHEN THE NERVES

The stomach of the American people is degenerating, caused from over eating, lack of exercise and neglect of health laws. We stuff our bodies with all kinds of food and all the food we can eat, fail to take sufficient exercise, eat too hastily and without proper discrimination as to diet. Then again, women eat too much candy and sweetmeats. This is bad for the welfare of the individual, but even more so to the community, because of its prevalence.

Such a diet becomes a habit and an abnormal craving is created. Taken with irregular hours of sleep —too little sleep one day and too much the next—the stomach gets out of order and the entire nervous system is shattered. We see this on every hand every day. It is a growing menace to the physical prosperity of the nation.

Our forefathers lived simple lives. They ate sparingly of plain food, worked hard and slept soundly. They were strong men and they did big things. If we are to keep up to their standard and resist invasions of modern life, we must get back to sound, healthy living.

If you feel sick, tired, run down, have a bad taste in the mouth, coated tongue, feel distressed after eating and have frequent headaches, your stomach is out of order.

Cooper's New Discovery will tone up the stomach, aid in the digestion of food and strengthen the nervous system. It will also regulate your bowels, relieve you of constipation and restore your energy, ambition and appetite. For sale at all druggists.

TO-DAY'S STOCK MARKETS; FINANCIAL NEWS

Better Tone to Stock Markets at the Opening

By W. H. ROSS.

STATE STREET, Sept. 12.—Midday—The Boston market was firmer at the opening and subsequently the price tendency seemed improved, although the volume of business was not large. Wolverine made a low record for the year, selling down to 86¼, but afterwards recovered to last night's closing price. This stock sells ex-dividend of $5 tomorrow.

During the morning Butte & Superior, North Butte, Granby, United States Smelting and Calumet & Arizona sold fractionally higher, and there were slight recessions in American Telephone, New York, New Haven & Hartford, Mayflower and Hancock.

The twenty-seventh consecutive quarterly dividend of 1¾ per cent. on the preferred stock of the Regal Shoe Company has been declared, and is payable October 1 to stockholders of record September 20.

Better Tone at N. Y. Opening.

The New York market had a little better tone at the opening, more strength being shown all along the line. Among the railroads Reading, which was under bear pressure yesterday, made the most gain at the start, beginning with an advance of ⅝ and then advancing ¼ additional. Active specialties were firm. Goodrich common gaining ⅝ and Mexican Petroleum advancing ⅝.

Steel common went up ⅛. Amalgamated ⅜, Erie Common ⅝, Lehigh Valley ⅛, Union Pacific ¼, Missouri Pacific ¼, Canadian Pacific ¼, Southern Pacific ⅝, Southern Railway ⅛. Smelting and Atchison were unchanged. Erie preferred dropped ¼. The Curb was heavy. Dealings in American shares in London were chiefly professional although the tone was moderately firm. Canadian Pacific in London was heavy. The monetary outlook caused hesitancy in the big British securities market.

A Chicago dispatch says that gross sales of the Loose-Wiles Biscuit Company for the current fiscal year are estimated at $14,000,000, an increase of about $2,500,000.

Cotton Opens Higher.

In New York a continuation of Wednesday's late buying movement caused the cotton market to open firm with prices from 10 to 12 points higher. There were also better cables, due to apprehension of storms over the Eastern belt. Some of the buying represented covering by shorts. Futures were steady in Liverpool; Spot there was firm.

Latest About Copper Metal.

There was not much movement in the London copper warrants market at the opening, spot being off 1s. 3d., while futures advanced 1s. 3d.

It is said that record breaking copper production in August was the result of the refinery strikes in June. The lack of European buying is attributed by some on the part of consumers there that there will be a reduction in the price of the red metal. Foreigners have never manifested so galsed confidence that the copper situation is as represented since the "hidden stocks" canard was circulated. Europeans will be shocked if the price of the metal is advanced, which is a more likely eventuality than concessions.

Financial News in Brief.

The Bank of England's minimum rate of discount remained unchanged at 4 per cent.

Today the bank's proportion reserves to liabilities is now 50.30 per cent. against 49.80 per cent. last week, and compares with an advance from 50.30 to 51.50 per cent. in the corresponding week in 1911. Consols were slightly lower in London at midday.

July iron ore shipments from Lake Superior totalled 21,290,000 tons, an increase of more than 7,000,000 tons compared with the same period last year.

Revolutionary proceedings in Mexico have been a serious obstacle to the completion of the Southern Pacific Railroad of Mexico, which has a route of 1,500 miles and was operating 912 of the distance at the end of June, 1911.

The Southern Pacific Company owns all of the $75,000,000 of the former road's stock. The Mexican road was a favorite of the late Mr. Harriman, who had obtained concessions from Diaz administration for its construction.

Crop movement has begun this year earlier than ever before and this is already reflected in money rates. Lack of cars and fear of congestion at terminals have stirred both shippers and railroads into the earliest possible activity.

The decline in sterling exchange rates and the advance in call money point to the probability that New York will soon import a considerable amount of gold from Europe. Cablegrams state that London and Paris bankers are now considering the gold situation in regard to the possibility of exporting yellow metal to the United States.

It is expected that the New York barge canal system will be completed in 1915. It will cost the State $100,000,000 and has fourteen terminals. The terminals will cost about $20,000,000. It was the Erie Canal, providing a water highway to the Great Lakes to the Hudson River, which gave New York city its first great advantage over Boston and Philadelphia. Massachusetts is proportionately as rich as the State of New York, but either the Commonwealth was always more inclined to develop the West than to invest in local improvements. What Boston needs most is a good deal for Boston Harbor developments is a very small amount compared with what is needed.

Messenger pig iron recently sold at the highest price reached since 1907 in the Pittsburgh district, and the demand for it is so great that further advances are looked for.

The government of Siam has placed its first order for steel rails in the United States. The order is for 12,000 tons and the United States Steel Corporation got it.

Abnormal heat, it is reported from the West, is rapidly advancing the corn crop to maturity and lessening the danger that it may be damaged by frost. The latter danger will be over by the first week in October, and if one comes it will have to be serious to do great damage.

The continued heavy losses by New York banks to the interior indicate that it is likely that their surplus reserve will be wiped out before the close of the week. Some loans have been called and others maturing time loans high interest must be paid.

Norfolk & Western gross revenues for 1911-1912 amounted to $39,735,000, an increase over the previous year of $4,120,000, or nearly 12 per cent. Expenses consumed $25,809,000, an increase of 22, 711,000, or 11.8 per cent, while the gross income amounted to $13,998,000, a gain of $1,426,000, or 11 per cent.

The Guaranty Trust Company of New York has proposed to the Standard Trust Company of that city to purchase its entire property. If the proposition is accepted it is understood that the Guaranty Trust Company will issue the total necessary from $5,000,000 to $10,000,000 and a portion of the new stock will be exchanged for the capital and deposits of the Standard Trust Company. The Guaranty Trust Company has resources amounting to $230,676,685, while the total resources of the Standard Trust Company are $23,152,735. The Guaranty Trust Company has a capital of $1,000,000 and a surplus and undivided profits amounting to $1,880,636.

Winne Family at Supper Table Deciding to Make Campaign for American's $10,000 Prize

LIVELY PACE SET IN NEW ENGLAND RACE FOR $40,000 PRIZES.

The Winne family, who live in the Madison-Calvert apartment house, and who are anxious to buy an old-fashioned place out on the River road and educate the boys and girls to college, are certainly setting a lively pace in the all-New England race for the Sunday AMERICAN'S $10,000 cash prize.

When Winne has enlisted the family, everybody has a part, and the campaign is on.

Aunt Anne—Miss Anne Vying, clerk in the co-operative bank in Main street—had a wonderful first day of it.

"Of course it has been agreed," Aunt Anne said last night—"as only twenty-three years old, four years the senior of Alma Winne—"of course it has been agreed that we are not to give figures until we have all been at work for ten days, but my success has really been wonderful.

"I told Mr. Gray about it this morning, when he came in, and he was quite enthusiastic. He told me to put him down for a thirty-six months' subscription to the Sunday AMERICAN——

"That's 7,500 votes," said Mrs. Winne.

"Exactly; and to put his sister, who lives on Beacon hill, down in Washburn, Maine, down for thirty-six months more."

15,000 Votes in One Day.

"Fifteen thousand votes in a single day," Pa Winne said, "why, that's almost as much as I can earn."

"It doesn't begin to represent what I have been promised," Aunt Anne said, "for I have told everybody about what Mathias would do with the $10,000—buy a home, educate the children, and everything—and everybody has shown the nicest disposition. But let me tell you.

"It was more quiet in the bank this forenoon, and soon after 10 o'clock Mr. Gray said I might go out until 1. He said of course I wouldn't think of doing it every day, or even very often, but that he would like to help me on one of these newspaper contests, and I might just as well drop around to the home of a few friends and get them interested. He said he thought it we started early enough the whole town would take up so, and make a community affair of it.

"I certainly think Mr. Gray is the kind of man to work for," Tom Winne said.

"I guess he is," said Ned, "he chipped in about a third of the cost of our base ball outfit this season; said it was good advertising for the town."

"Well, Anne," said Ma Winne, "and how did you get along?"

"I got the greatest encouragement everywhere," said the young Aunt, "and I've got the greatest surprise for you.

What the Surprise Was.

"My time was almost up, when I got around to the Bay State House. I did want Ruth to help me. She is SO popular, but I hadn't had luncheon, and I didn't like to ask.

"So Ruth and I stood chatting there, on the porch, when who should come along but Mr. Willing, the Edgar—Mr. Willing, that is."

"I thought it was about time for Edgar—Mr. Willing, that is—to show up in the story," said Jimmy Winne.

"Hush!" said his father.

"He brought me down to the tea rooms, and on the way I told him all about it, and he said you, Martha, were the pluckiest little mother in the town, and 'Jack' about the best fellow, and we could put him down for the limit.

"I thought to more about it until just as we were about to close, when a man formed messenger came driving down to Mr. Willing's.

"Edgar, that is," said Jimmy.

Mr. Winne discreetly hid himself behind the evening paper.

"Came around from Mr. Willing's print shop with a package addressed to me, and a little note saying that there are 'more where these came from, subject to call,' Here is the envelope, letters printed on the back as if they had been typewritten. All I have to do is typewrite in the names. Let me read one:

The Letter.

Dear ——

No doubt you have seen that the Boston Sunday AMERICAN is offering a cash prize of $10,000 to the man or woman in New England who, in the next twenty weeks, turns in the largest number of subscription votes. A 6-months subscription counts for 1,500 votes; 12 months, 3,500 votes; thirty-six months, 7,500 votes.

Mrs. Winne says this $10,000 would be a great deal to our town and to our house. Every member of the family, under her leadership, is already a member of the Sunday AMERICAN'S $60,000 Circulation Club. We are going to get that $10,000.

May we count upon your help? I should be glad to put you down for a six-months subscription, delighted with a 12-months subscription, joyful with a 36-months' subscription.

So far as we know, nobody else hereabouts has yet enrolled in the contest.

Please let me hear from you at your earliest convenience.

Sincerely

"These cards, Mr. Willing explained over the telephone, are intended for you, 'Papa'—Aunt Anna always calls her brother-in-law 'Papa'—but that the form can be readjusted so that all of us may use similar announcements.

"I had the messenger come straight to the house here with the city directory."

"Right here," said Ned.

"And tonight we ought to address three or four hundred of them."

"And pay not one eight dollars for mailing them," said the practical Miss Katherine.

"That's so," said Ma Winne.

"I hadn't thought of that," Aunt Anna said, biting her lip, "I think that's just too bad.

"And dont think of it now," said Master Jimmy, "there is where Little Nephew comes in strong, Nan; how about me, for Mary the Messenger Boy,' by Horatio Alger, Jr.?"

"That's the idea," Pa Winne said, proudly, "before and after school, on your wheel."

"And on Saturdays," said Jim.

"Splendid!" said everybody.

One Evening's Work.

And so they all went to work. Aunt Anna using her "home" typewriter, and Miss Anne and Katherine and Ned and Tom Winne, are all pegging away at little methods of their own, not so general, perhaps, but just as effective in operation by Aunt Anna and Jimmy and Edgar—"Mr. Willing, that is"—that their own way quite as effective quite as effective.

Which merely goes to show, dear reader, that the competition for the Sunday AMERICAN'S great $40,000 subscription-vote contest is on.

What are YOU doing about it?

The contest progresses on to September 22, one week from next Sunday. On another page you may read all about this great contest. There are 1,501 prizes.

The first prize is the extraordinary offer of $10,000, to be paid absolutely, without conditions and without a string, to the man or woman, boy or girl, who turns in the largest number of subscription-votes.

Fill out the enrollment ballot—good for the first 1,000 votes—and turn it in to the Contest Editor, P. O. Box 3,047, Boston, Mass., and START TODAY.

Auto News

By J. C. KERRIGON.

Inasmuch as the route has been covered by the Flanders Electric and its feasibility thereby proven, E. Leroy Pelletier, advertising manager of the Flanders Company, has suggested to the touring board of the A. A. A. that a separate and distinct division be created in the forthcoming reliability tour—Detroit to New Orleans—for electric pleasure vehicles. This schedule is to be somewhat slower than that for gasoline cars.

"I believe this would do more to enlighten the public and the trade on the possibilities of the modern electric than anything else that could be done," says Mr. Pelletier, "and the Flanders Company would welcome the opportunity to demonstrate under official supervision the possibilities of our electric."

Sales Manager Churchill of the Winton Motor Car Company is spending a few days in Boston, visiting Local Manager Hinchcliffe. Mr. Churchill has recently been over the greater portion of the country, and his impression is that 1913 will be a banner year in the motor industry. He and his firm feel that the automobile age has not yet arrived, that it is still in its infancy, and that it will be a great many years before it reaches the pinnacle of popularity.

* * *

Another visitor in Boston was J. B. Hall, salesmanager of the Oldsmobile Company. He visited Local Manager Pugh at his Commonwealth avenue establishment and after a thorough inspection of the building expressed the belief that it is one of the best appointed and conducted service stations in the country. President O. B. Hutchinson of the Oldsmobile Company was here the earlier part of the week.

W. E. Metzger of the Flanders Company, one of the best-known manufacturers in the country, is in Boston for a few days' sojourn in the more world known Billie Metzger, one of the pioneers, always identified with a real, live proposition. Mr. Metzger says that in the Flanders they have the car of the year and that when the "six" comes out with a few days the public will be delighted and surprised with the excellency of its construction and finish.

The Sales Managers' Convention, decided upon a short time ago by the trade committee of the Automobile Board of Trade, will be held at its headquarters in New York on Monday and Tuesday, September 30 and October 1.

Interesting New Theory on Noses

It Is Interesting. Let Us Discuss It.

Copyright, 1912, by American-Journal-Examiner

Here is a suggestion handed to the Editor in regard to noses. Have you noticed, by the way, how many suggestions all men find in things that interest their CHILDREN!

Editor BOSTON AMERICAN:

Dear Sir—Here is a hunch on big noses that may be useful some time, if it isn't too old. You remember our friend Napoleon wanted men for generals with big noses, because they were usually abler. I've been trying to find out why. Lately, since my small son was operated on for adenoids, I find his nose, which was formerly small, is beginning to develop rapidly. Of course, this is because he now breathes through it, and using any organ develops it. But isn't it barely possible that the MEN WHO HAVE BIG NOSES ARE THE NOSE BREATHERS? AND THAT THEY ARE ABLER BECAUSE THEY GET MORE AND BETTER AIR INTO THEIR LUNGS BECAUSE THEY DO BREATHE THROUGH THEIR NOSES?

Sincerely, J. O.

This letter is printed because all human beings are interested in noses. Whatever a man HAS he is interested in. Consequently you can be sure to attract all of your readers when you talk about blue eyes, big noses, red hair, fat or thin bodies. For the same reason you interest millions when you talk about babies.

Ninety-nine times out of a hundred the man with the big nose is the able man.

Go over at random a few of the very great men—Dante, Napoleon, Washington, Lincoln, Wagner, Voltaire—most of our everyday favorites—and you will find them with big noses. As we have said before, you find them with blue eyes ALWAYS. There are NO exceptions to the rule that the really great men have blue eyes; there ARE some exceptions to the rule about big noses.

For instance, Socrates, who was very great indeed, had a very small and turned-up nose. Perhaps some accident happened to it when he was young. The Greeks thought big noses—reasonably big—beautiful. And they thought so much of beauty that they didn't see how it was possible for a man to be as wise as Socrates and as ugly as he was.

Beethoven—the greatest musician that has lived thus far—also had a rather small nose. Cromwell had another small nose.

Speaking hastily, we should be inclined to say that great INTELLECTUAL power goes with a big nose, and that force of character, the FIGHTING quality, goes with a small nose. Cromwell and Socrates—the latter was really only a moral fighter, not an intellectual one—compared with Voltaire, Dante and Napoleon, bear out this theory sufficiently well.

We disagree with our contributor in one way. We do not think it is BREATHING that makes the nose big. It is THINKING that produces big noses.

A life of prolonged study and deep mental concentration will actually change the nose of the individual to a perceptible extent—making it larger and bumpier than it would be naturally. Of course, this effect is accentuated from one generation to another, and it is pretty safe to say that the man with a highly developed nose either comes from a thinking FAMILY or from a RACE that has done some thinking for a good many centuries.

The pronounced noses of the Jewish race are undoubtedly due to the four thousand years of education that they have behind them. When most of our ancestors were savages, dancing around with little civilization and few clothes, the Jews already had more than two thousand years of civilized and thinking life back of them.

When Solomon ruled and wrote his Song, a young man could say to the young lady he admired:

"Thy nose is as the tower of Lebanon which looketh toward Damascus." Seventh chapter, fourth verse. Song of Solomon.

That was meant as a compliment, not as a joke. If you have ever seen the tower of Lebanon which looketh toward Damascus—we haven't—you know that such a comparison would not be called complimentary in our "nez retrousse" day.

In addition to that, the last two thousand years—during which anti-Jewish prejudice, which, having reached its climax, has been gradually dying out—has been a very thoughtful period for the Jews. Only those that could THINK could ESCAPE.

Why it is that thinking should affect the nose we don't pretend to say. Of course, even in the animal world you will notice that the mental operations seem reflected in the face. For instance, the eagle—with his very fine beak, his savage, determined temperament—has a very different physiognomy from that of a canary bird, or an honest egg-laying hen.

We must remember that it doesn't do to judge a man ENTIRELY by his nose. Very often the nose—which originally indicated thought or concentration of purpose—keeps its shape long after the thinking has ended and after the purpose has melted.

For instance, you can find in Europe an elaborate collection of princes and princesses with magnificent inherited noses—and among them all there is not enough real thought, energy or concentration to make one single street peddler a success.

Our friend thinks that he has solved the nose question, as he explains in his memorandum sent to the editor. The strongest man is the one that has the best blood; the one that has the best blood is the one that breathes the greatest quantity of fresh air—getting his blood most thoroughly oxygenized—the biggest nose gets the most air, etc.

It is a good idea to encourage, anyhow. Anything that will make people take deep breaths, leave their windows open, and get into their lungs the fresh air so plentifully supplied—about the only thing that we get for nothing—must do good.

Those very lazy fish called "suckers," that country boys pull up from the muddy bottoms of stagnant ponds, are the only animals as foolish as the human being that neglects his fresh-air supply. The sucker, if he chose, could come up out of the mud and fill his gills with good air, as the other fish do. Instead of that, he digs down in the mud, and his flesh isn't fit to eat—it is even worse than that of the catfish that stays in the mud all Winter.

If our contributor's idea will stop a few of his fellow-creatures from being like the sucker in the pond mud, he will do good. It will also do good to get people to thinking even about their noses. It is better to think about a trival thing like that than not to think at all.

You Can't Always Sometimes Tell

I Wish I Had a Hundred Million Dollars

A Most Unreasonable, Preposterous and Utterly Foolish Wish, This of the Comic Song of a Dozen Years Ago, But THERE ARE REASONABLE WISHES. For Instance, You Might WISH FOR TEN THOUSAND DOLLARS, AND GET IT.

THAT was a ridiculous song, of a dozen years ago, "I Wish I Had a Hundred Million Dollars."

Perhaps you remember this song, and how it MADE YOU LAUGH.

The wisher, you may recall, wanted "Rockefeller waiting on the table." He had champagne fountains bubbling at his feet.

IDLE wishing is POOR BUSINESS. It is very much like faith without good works, and we all know that faith, if it hath not works, is dead, BEING ALONE.

One of the poets has expressed it very well. "In IDLE wishes," he says, "fools supinely stay; be there a will, and wisdom finds a way."

A wish, to be a GOOD wish, has got to have ACTION behind it, has got to be BACKED UP BY WORK. Hustle would be even a better word, perhaps.

We think of these things today, of the ridiculous song, which made everybody laugh, and of the dreamer who "wishes" for things, and RESTS CONTENT WITH IDLE WISHES, in connection with the great $10,000 offer the Sunday AMERICAN is making to its readers.

The Sunday AMERICAN is a GREAT SUNDAY NEWSPAPER. It is one of the MOST SUCCESSFUL SUNDAY NEWSPAPERS IN THE UNITED STATES. It is bought regularly by 400,000 people.

Recently, the editor of the Sunday AMERICAN determined to increase the circulation of his newspaper by 100,000 readers, and to DO IT QUICKLY.

He did not say, observe, "I WISH we had a circulation of 500,000." He said, "We are GOING TO HAVE 500,000 subscribers." Of course he WISHED for them, IN THE BEGINNING, but immediately he started out to GET them.

And it is this enterprise of the Boston Sunday AMERICAN which makes it possible for YOU to have the $10,000 you have been wishing for.

The Sunday AMERICAN offers this altogether UNPRECEDENTED CASH PRIZE to the man or woman, boy or girl, in New England, who, in the NEXT TWENTY WEEKS, turns in the largest number of SUBSCRIPTION-VOTES. This ten thousand dollars will be paid without hesitation, without conditions, without a string of any kind, to the man or woman, boy or girl, entitled to it.

You can BUILD THE HOUSE you have had in mind, buy an AUTOMOBILE, send the boy and girl to COLLEGE, put a little something in the BANK, with the Sunday AMERICAN'S GREAT CASH PRIZE OF $10,000. And your chance of winning this great prize is as good as anybody else's. If you fill out the enrollment blank to be found on another page—and the filing of this blank starts you in the race with 1,000 votes to your credit—the Contest Editor will forward all the information you desire. He will DO MORE. He will point out a dozen pathways, all leading straight to the goal.

And the question is, do you REALLY want ten thousand dollars, or are you content to STAY SUPINELY IN IDLE WISHES?

It is FOR YOU TO DECIDE.

The Sunday AMERICAN wants 100,000 more readers. It wants them speedily. The best way possible seemed to be the enlistment of the 400,000 present purchasers of the BEST SUNDAY NEWSPAPER IN NEW ENGLAND, who know the Sunday AMERICAN, who like it, and who testify to this knowledge and this liking by buying the paper Sunday after Sunday, year after year.

But the Sunday AMERICAN could not ask its readers to urge the paper upon their friends without compensation.

And so these prizes, numbering, altogether, FIFTEEN HUNDRED AND ONE.

The great prize is the $10,000 prize—perhaps the greatest, and certainly the largest, cash prize ever offered by a New England newspaper. But there are FIVE OTHER PRIZES OF $1,000 EACH.

These prizes will be paid cheerfully to those who win them. Fill out the enrollment ballot today—NOW would be the best time—and have the Contest Editor forward the details.

Here is your WISH COME TRUE. Here is your SHIP, coming into harbor.

A little agreeable work among your friends and neighbors and TEN THOUSAND GOLDEN DOLLARS MAY BE YOURS.

The AMERICAN would be glad to give away many times ten thousand dollars—perhaps it will, some day—but for the present here is this great cash prize of ten thousand dollars. It belongs to SOME READER OF THIS NEWSPAPER. It may belong to YOU.

Fill out the enrollment ballot you see on another page, back up that wish of yours with Yankee hustle, and TAKE THE MONEY.

Or else stop wishing.

Thoughts About Women

WOMEN know at first sight the character of those with whom they converse. There is much to give them a religious height to which men do not attain.—Ralph Waldo Emerson.
